Berlin Cautious on Italian War Threat

GERMANY IS CALM AS NEW CRISIS NEARS

Teutonic Press Expresses Pain Rather Than Anger At Course of Mussolini

AUSTRIA MAY APPEAL

Vienna Government Ready To Invoke Aid of League Of Nations in Tyrol Case

(By United Press)

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The German foreign office assumed an extremely cautious and equivocal attitude today toward Premier Mussolini's clear warning that Italy will not brook further German attacks on the South Tyrol policy of Italy.

And meantime, the German press showed a striking unanimity in expressing "pain" rather than "anger" at Mussolini's suggestion that Italy could exact a revenge of "two eyes for an eye and a whole set of teeth for a tooth," or even carry its colors beyond the famed Brenner pass, which now marks Italy's northernmost outpost.

Even strong Monarchist organs like the Lokai Anzeiger, of Berlin, lack belligerency in their treatment of the situation.

The Lokai Anzeiger, for instance, contents itself with affirming that Germany never sought expansion at Italy's expense. The Tageliche Rundschau, close to Foreign Minister Stresemann, suggests that Italy is nettled at the new Franco-German rapprochement resulting from the Locarno treaties, whereas Italy had hoped to align Germany with herself against France.

AUSTRIA TO RELY ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

VIENNA, Feb. 8.—The United Press learned semi-officially today that Austria will rely upon action of the League of Nations, in event Premier Mussolini of Italy attempts unfriendly acts in Tyrol.

Meantime, traders said that it was probable Austria would turn to America for fruits, as a boycott on the Italian fruits was now definitely organized.

(This action follows Saturday's speech of Mussolini to the Italian chamber in which he warned Germany against anti-Italian attacks upon the South Tyrol policy of Italy and declared that Italy, on occasion, could carry her flag beyond the Brenner pass.)

MAN SLAIN AFTER HE KILLS OFFICER

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 8.—Herbert L. Klade, 32, Los Angeles police man stationed here, was shot and killed today by an unidentified prowler, who was later killed by three other officers.

Klade was shot down when he responded to a call from the home of Mrs. Edward Mahar, widow of the former president of the First National bank, who reported a man was prowling about the house.

The prowler first drew a knife and slashed Klade's cheek, following with a bullet through the officer's heart.

Neighbors sent in a riot call and when the reserves arrived the prowler was still at large, brandishing his revolver. He was shot down by the police.

Authorities found no identification marks on the dead man's body, but believe he escaped from the psychopathic ward of the county hospital. Klade is survived by a widow.

Three Boys On Raft Drown In L. A. River

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—Three boys who "played sailors" with their homemade raft were drowned in the Los Angeles river Sunday.

Roland Gedda, 12, was hero of the tragedy. He lost his life in a futile effort to rescue Clarence and Orville Carroll, 11 and 6, respectively.

The Carroll brothers, unable to swim, went to the bottom of the river when their flimsy raft capsized. Gedda swam to their rescue, but was dragged under by the drowning boys.

3 ARE DEAD IN SUICIDE PACT; FOURTH DYING

(By United Press)

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 8.—An apparent suicide pact, which resulted in the death of a father, mother and one daughter of a family here, was discovered when police broke into a gas filled kitchen and found the bodies of Thomas M. Petet, Mrs. Petet and their 19-year-old daughter, Audrey. Clyde Petet, 26, another daughter, is dying in a hospital.

The death agreement, which will wipe out an entire family if the living daughter succumbs, is believed to have been made after a five-day visit to Tia Juana, during which time the two daughters are said to have been drugged, kidnapped and attacked.

A cat, the household pet, had been placed in a laundry bag and drowned in the bath tub by Petet, near whose hand lay an automatic pistol, which had not been fired.

Police believe that the man intended to use the gun if any of the family attempted to withdraw from the death chamber.

Petet came here several months ago and has been engaged in the grocery business. A mail, made by the dead man, left everything to his partner, D. W. Conlogue, with whom he owned a peanut and popcorn business here. Police have been unable to locate relatives of the family.

MANY NABBED FOR LABOR ON SUNDAY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 8.—How "blue" the old blue law of 1803 can make the Sundays of 1926 will be determined in a justice court here Tuesday.

A movement, originally inaugurated to prevent the sale of gasoline on the Sabbath, grew so rapidly that over the week-end two newspaper publishers, operatives of taxi and bus lines, shoe shiners, news stand proprietors and others were cited to appear in court for operating on Sunday.

Col. Luke Lea, publisher of the Tennesseean, and Maj. James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner, were the first named in the warrants for continuing work on Sunday papers after midnight and starting work on the Monday morning edition Sunday night.

Papers On Fronk Return Honored

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8.—The governor's office today honored a requisition for the return from Chicago to Los Angeles of John K. Fronk, wanted at the latter place to answer charges of embezzlement and forgery, involving approximately $350,000, through the operation of an automobile financing corporation. Sheriff William I. Traeger, of Los Angeles county, was here to get approval of the governor to the requisition.

Democrats For Dry Law Repeal

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Ousting of Gov. Len Small and modification or repeal of the Volstead act are the principal planks in the platform adopted by the Cook County Democratic convention for the April primaries.

The Democrats, in convention last night, declared Small has no right to continue in office, in view of the finding of the courts that the governor owes the state more than $1,000,000. This sum represents interest on state funds Small is alleged to have withheld from the treasury while he was state treasurer.

BOAT SINKS 3 MILES OFF GOLDEN GATE

CREW OF 28 RESCUED

Distressed Schooner, in Tow of Tug, Suddenly Settles, Then Disappears

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8.—Within three miles of the Golden Gate, the steam schooner Yosemite, which went on the rocks off Point Reyes early Sunday, tearing a big hole in her hull, sank early today, while under tow of the tug Sea Ranger.

The schooner was loaded with dynamite and percussion caps, destined for Point Ludlow, Wn.

Shortly after the stricken schooner sank to the bottom, the cargo exploded. Spray shot high in the air and wreckage floated to the surface and drifted shoreward.

Halmadahl, it was said, was a guide for Pershing's unsuccessful expedition after Villa.

The bandit leader was buried here in 1925, after his murder by former henchmen.

ARIZONANS FAVOR BUILDING OWN DAM

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 8.—Resolutions urging the legislature to make appropriations for construction of a Colorado river dam by the state were adopted by Arizona Democrats, meeting here.

The politicians, gathered here to effect a permanent organization, predicted that the Colorado river question, with opposition to nationalization of the stream, will be the principal campaign issue in Arizona the coming year.

Resolutions commending Senator Ashurst and Representative Hayden for their stand in opposing the Swing-Johnson bill were adopted also.

MADMAN CAUSES PANIC IN CHURCH

SAN ANSELMO, Calif., Feb. 8.—Scores of worshippers attending mass in St. Anselmo's church here today were terrified when Edward Senophi, 35, rushed in, screaming, "I'm going to blow up the place!"

"You'd better get out or you'll be killed," the madman shrieked.

The church was quickly emptied and local police and firemen answered the call of the Rev. W. J. Cantwell.

Senophi battled 20 men for several minutes before he was subdued. He was not armed and carried no explosives.

Lunatic Poisons Five in Asylum

KANKAKEE, Ill., Feb. 8.—Mrs. Anna Haas, of Chicago, inmate of the Illinois state hospital for the insane here, attempted to kill five other feeble-minded persons by feeding them rat poison, Dr. W. O. Stoker, superintendent, admitted today. Mrs. Mary Roberts, 56, one of the victims, died, and the others are in a serious condition. Mrs. Haas told the women that the poison was candy and urged them to share it with her. The five readily assented. A few moments later they became violently ill.

2 JAILED FOR CUTTING OFF VILLA'S HEAD

(By United Press)

NOGALES, Ariz., Feb. 8.—Emil Halmadahl, American "soldier of fortune," and Alberto Corral, Mexican, are held in jail at Nogales, Ariz., on charges of decapitating the body of Francisco Villa, notorious bandit rebel, according to advices here today.

The decapitated body of Villa was held by authorities while they searched for the rebel chieftain's head. A note, left by ghouls who tampered with Villa's grave, stated the head had been shipped to Columbus, N. M. It was here that Villa's riders killed several Americans in 1916, resulting in a punitive expedition into Mexico.

Halmadahl, it was said, was a guide for Pershing's unsuccessful expedition after Villa.

The bandit leader was buried here in 1925, after his murder by former henchmen.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The death toll along the Pacific coast over the week-end amounted to 17, according to a United Press survey today.

Only one of the number was killed in an automobile accident, a big decrease in the usual list of motor fatalities.

The death toll included: C. R. Fale, 73, town marshal, of Yelm, Wn., who died from gunshot wounds, inflicted by burglars.

Mrs. J. B. Larson, Dickinson, N. D., killed when hit by street car in Tacoma.

Charles Shelhorn, Medicine Hat, Alta., shot by partner aboard fishing smack near Seattle.

Winford Favel, 40, of Tonasket, Wn., drowned Saturday when canoe capsized in Nisqually river.

Z. F. Fox, Eugene, Ore., died from injuries suffered when hit by a falling tree in a storm.

L. E. Sperry, Vallejo, Calif., presumably a suicide by drowning.

Howard F. Schaffer, San Francisco hotel clerk, died from heart attack presumably caused by excitement over scuffle with a guest.

Clarence F. DeWitt Everett, 26, struck by a street car in Los Angeles.

Leon Eyle, 23, killed when machine and interurban train collided near Los Angeles.

Paul Treptow, 13, killed when his motorcycle hit an automobile, near Los Angeles.

Twenty-six were injured in week-end mishaps, the majority in automobile wrecks.

OFFICER IS SLAIN BY BOOTLEGGERS

SAN GABRIEL, Feb. 8.—Motorcycle Officer G. H. Griffin was killed today, following a gun battle with a gang of bootleggers on a lonely highway near here. The officers were shot down when they sought to arrest an auto load of men, including three Mexicans and one American. Griffin was killed instantly and Bence was shot in the arm. The gunmen escaped.

Would Eliminate Grade Crossings

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—A scheme to eliminate all grade crossings along the Southern Pacific main line in Glendale, Burbank and northwestern Los Angeles, was discussed today by the state railroad commission.

A. G. Mott, transportation engineer, outlined plans to do away with the "death crossings" at the hearings of the commissioners, which started this morning.

Troops Guard Negro From Furious Mob

GEORGETOWN, Del., Feb. 8.—While troops stood watch over an angry crowd milling around the Sussex county courthouse this afternoon, Harry Butler, negro, was convicted by a jury and sentenced to hang for an attack on a 12-year-old girl. Butler will be hanged February 26.

A crowd of 200 in the courtroom heard the verdict without demonstration, but the news was withheld for a time from the crowd outside the courthouse which, by that time, had reached 5000.

After having repulsed with tear gas bombs one attack by approximately 1000 persons, threatening violence to Butler, the troops moved 10 machine-guns into a barbed-wire enclosure surrounding the courthouse.

ACTION FILED TO PREVENT BIG COMBINE

Government Alleges Violation of Sherman Law and Clayton Act in Merger

EFFORT AT MONOPOLY

Federal Suit Brought to Halt Forming of Corporation to Stop Competition

(By United Press)

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8.—The government today filed suit in federal court here to restrain the formation of the two-billion-dollar Wood Products corporation, articles of incorporation of which were filed here several days ago.

The government's complaint charges the merger violates the Sherman anti-trust law.

The defendants named are: Ward Food Products corporation, Ward Baking corporation, General Baking corporation, General Baking company, Continental Baking corporation, United Baking corporation, William A. Ward, Howard B. Ward, William Delinger, Paul S. Helms, J. W. Rumphough, B. E. Patterson, George C. Barber and George H. Smith.

Follows Long Investigation.

The action follows months of investigation by the department of justice of development in the baking and related industries, in which special attention has been given the several mergers that have taken place therein.

These investigations are alleged by the department in its brief to have developed facts which, in the opinion of the department, evidence a clear intention on the part of those responsible for the mergers eventually to bring together the merged companies under the control of one gigantic corporation.

The formation of the Ward Products corporation is held to be for the evident purpose of consummating that plan and is given as the immediate cause of filing the suit.

Charge Violating Two Laws.

The government's brief asks that the defendants be adjudged to have violated both the Sherman law and the Clayton act; that the defendants be enjoined from doing any act in furtherance of the alleged combination, conspiracy and attempt to monopolize; that the defendants, Ward Baking corporation, Continental Baking corporation, United Baking corporation, and Ward Food Products corporation be enjoined from acquiring the whole or any part of the stocks, securities and physical assets of each other; that the last named defendants be perpetually enjoined from having any director, officer, agent or employee in common with each other and from entering into contracts, agreements or understandings with one another, supplies and equipment for a common policy in the same of their output.

The particular action asked of the court under the Clayton act is that the corporate defendants be required to dispossess themselves of stocks and other securities of any competing company heretofore acquired by them "to the end that competition may be fully restored in the baking industry."

GOVERNMENT PROBE OF FOOD 'TRUSTS' OPENS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—With George B. Barber, chairman of the board of the Continental Baking corporation, as the first witness, the government started its investigation of the first of the "food trusts."

The government, through the federal trade commission, charged that the Continental corporation through the merger of 25 baking corporations, seeks to stifle competition, restrain commerce in the bread business and attempt to create a monopoly. The corporation denies (Continued on Page 3)

THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASHES OVERWEEKEND

Accident reports, filed at the sheriff's office during the last 48 hours, show that three persons were injured in as many accidents in and near Santa Ana over the week-end. None of the persons injured were hurt seriously, it was reported.

Mrs. Ella Sears, Long Beach, was slightly injured at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, when the machine, driven by her daughter, Mrs. Lena Christensen, 164 East Alvarado street, Pomona, ran off the road at the intersection of the Los Alamitos and Anaheim boulevards, according to a report filed by Louis Heffner, state motorcycle officer.

Mrs. Sears was taken to her home. George Shaer, El Modena, was slightly hurt at 8 o'clock last night, when the machine in which he was riding collided with a machine said to have been driven by Clyde Cox, also of El Modena, according to a report at the sheriff's office.

The man was taken to the Orange county hospital, where he received medical attention. According to the report, filed by Leonard Snyder, driver of the car in which Shaer was a passenger, he stopped his machine to give a pedestrian a ride, when the Cox machine crashed into him, having come out of a private driveway.

Mrs. L. A. Radke, 319 West Third street, suffered slight injuries at 8 p. m. yesterday, when the car, in which she was riding with her husband, was struck by another machine, said to have been driven by R. A. Wheeler, San Pedro, six miles north of Oceanside, in San Diego county.

According to a report filed at the sheriff's office, Radke had stopped his machine to repair a tire, when the Wheeler machine crashed into the rear of it. Mrs. Radke was removed to her home. She is not thought to be seriously injured.

"DEAD" MINER LIVES

Cecil McKinney was entombed with 91 others when an explosion wrecked the shaft of the Degnan-McConnell mine in Wilburton, Okla., Rescue workers who went down 24 hours later found him and pronounced him dead. But he revived, crawled over the lifeless body of his father and 17 other dead men and made his way to the surface. He is shown recovering at home, surrounded by his wife and children. He was the only white man to escape.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES IN SANTA ANA

J. S. Cook, resident of this city since 1920, died Saturday, in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nettie Y. Shuey, 809 North Broadway, at the age of 85 years.

Funeral services will be held in the Winbiger Mission Funeral parlors Thursday, at 10 a. m., following which the body will be shipped to Red Oak, Ia., for burial. The body will be accompanied by Earl Kittle, of Hollywood, and Dr. G. Cook, of Anaheim.

Mr. Cook is survived by four children, Mrs. Shuey and Mrs. Carl G. Strock, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Harl Kittle, of Hollywood, and Dr. Cook.

Mr. Cook was born in Delaware county, Ohio, April 27, 1841, and was married to Eliza Price in Keokuk, Ia., May 27, 1865, six children resulting from the union, four of whom are living. Mr. Cook died 26 years ago, in Red Oak.

Enlisting, at the opening of the Civil war, with Company K, third Iowa infantry, Mr. Cook served through the war. He was with Sherman on his march to the sea. He was a prominent member of Bruce's command, No. 34, and of Red Oak lodge, No. 153 A. F. and A. M. He was the oldest Mason in Montgomery county, Iowa.

During his residence in Red Oak, he was active in civic and political affairs and at one time was sheriff of Montgomery county. His business vocation was that of a real estate operator.

He was known at the "father" of the fire department in Red Oak, having organized the department many years ago.

JAPANESE PURSE SEINERS ASHORE

Going ashore in a dense fog yesterday morning, the Japanese purse seiners, Washington was high and dry on the beach, between Newport Beach and Laguna Beach, today. A tug from San Pedro was unable to pull the craft back into the water. Another attempt will be made at high tide today.

Another Japanese purse seiner, Aquila, went ashore Saturday morning. Efforts to get the boat back into the ocean had been unsuccessful up until noon today.

It is understood that both boats are owned by the Van Camp Packing company of San Pedro.

Members of the crews of both vessels escaped without injury, it is understood.

CRUELTY DIVORCE SUIT DISMISSED

When the divorce suit, brought by Mrs. Mildred Ethridge against Howard Ethridge, came up for its scheduled trial today, in Superior Judge Z. B. West's court, announcement was made that the case had been dismissed. Rumors of a reconciliation were current.

Mrs. Ethridge sued her husband on grounds of alleged cruelty. The couple had separated in Long Beach. Pending trial of the action, Mrs. Ethridge had been granted custody of their two children and $60 per month alimony.

Ethridge opposed his wife's petition for a decree but did not seek a divorce himself. He asked custody of the children.

YOUNG SPEEDER DOESN'T APPEAR FOR SENTENCE

Merrill K. Smith, 17, Pasadena high school student, who wanted maternal counsel in his predicament as an arrested speeder, and who was given until today to decide whether he would accept a sentence of two weeks in the juvenile home, from the juvenile court, or take his chances as an adult with Justice K. E. Morrison, apparently hadn't made up his mind today.

At least, he failed to appear in Judge E. J. Marks' court today, at the appointed hour, to announce his decision. Last Friday, when he first appeared on a charge of driving 63 miles per hour, and was given his choice between the two courts, he turned to his father and exclaimed:

"Oh, if I could just see mother, she'd know what to do."

Whether he stayed away from court today on "mother's" advice, or for some other reason, the authorities didn't know, but unless he appeared some time today, it was announced, Judge Marks would issue a bench warrant for his arrest.

Probation Officer L. A. Warren was planning a daring invasion of the Smith household or the Pasadena high school campus to serve the warrant.

BONDING COMPANY

IS SUE FOR BAIL

Because the insurance company that provided $500 bond for the release of Alexander Wilson, convicted Westminster bootlegger, who has, it is said, jumped his bail, the county of Orange today had filed suit, in superior court, to collect the $500 from the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance company, of New York.

Wilson was convicted March 9, 1925, of selling liquor. His sentence was deferred, first until August and then until December 4, because he pleaded illness and inability to come into court. The $500 bond had been posted in January, 1925.

When Wilson failed to appear in court for sentence December 4, the court declared his bond forfeited. The bonding company, however, is alleged to have refused payment of the $500.

The younger men of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a dinner this evening at the Y. M. C. A. building, for social and program purposes. The entertainment will include songs and fun by Ted Grigg, Cy Featherly and John Sylvester, one or two athletic stunts connected with the gymnasium circus, which comes next week and a talk on the work of the Anti-Narcotic league, by a representative of the organization. Plans are to be formulated for the Y. M. C. A. indoor baseball league, to be made up of teams selected from among the members of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Blee of 311 Orange avenue returned last Thursday from their trip down to Matlahuala, San Luis Potosi, Mexico, where they went to visit their son, Benton Blee and family. En route home, Mr. and Mrs. Blee stopped over in Phoenix, Ariz. They were away from Santa Ana a month. Mr. Blee says that there is too much poverty in Mexico to suit an American and he had no inclination to remain. Mr. and Mrs. Blee cut their visit short as the elevation of a "mile high" did not agree with them. Matlahuala is about 100 miles north of the city of San Luis Potosi and 400 miles north of Mexico City.

Word from Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nicky and Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Peterson, now in Honolulu, related the fact that all members of the party, with the exception of Mr. Nicky, were seasick on the trip to the islands, the passage being an exceedingly rough one. The letter was written on the S. S. Matsonia on the eve of arrival at Hawaii, where the Nicky's will tarry for two weeks ere departing on a trip around the world. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson were to vacation for five weeks in the islands, returning to San Francisco on the Matsonia's sister ship, the Maui, sailing from Honolulu on February 17. The itinerary of the Nicky's includes China, Japan, the Philippines, Ceylon and Egypt. In Europe, they will motor through Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, England and Scotland.

A new addition to the Santa Ana fire department is announced today. The addition is a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hoyle, of 112 East Camille street. The child was born yesterday at 5:45 p. m. Hoyle has been connected with the local fire department for several years.

AIR DOMESTIC TROUBLES IN DIVORCE SUIT

Matrimonial grievances of Mrs. Helen M. Ogle, youthful wife of Joel E. Ogle, were being aired today before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams at the trial of the Ogle divorce case.

Mrs. Ogle is seeking a decree and alimony for the support of their child. Ogle, who denies her charge of cruelty, came into court to prevent his wife from getting a divorce. He did not ask for a decree himself.

The couple, former residents of Long Beach and later of Paularino, has been separated since May, 1925. They were married in 1923.

Shortly after their marriage, Ogle tried to induce his bride's mother to annul their marriage, because the girl was under legal age and had married without parental consent. Now, however, he is fighting her efforts to get a divorce.

In her complaint, Mrs. Ogle charged that in April, 1924, Ogle left her for a month, without funds, in Long Beach. Ogle denies she left her penniless, but admits he left her, explaining that he became angered when he saw her riding in a taxi on another man's lap.

Two versions of a quarrel in Paularino, when Ogle forced his wife to open a door for him, were expected to be presented in court. Mrs. Ogle claims her husband handled her roughly and swore at her without provocation. Ogle declares he came home and found his wife smoking cigars with a friend.

When he protested and requested her to open the door to let in some fresh air, she swore at him, he said, and told him to open it himself. To "teach her manners," he said, he seized her hand and led her to the door and made her open it, only using what force was necessary.

Attorneys Z. B. West Jr. and Franklin G. West, of Santa Ana, represent Mrs. Ogle. Her husband is represented by Attorney Max Lewis, Los Angeles.

PUBLISHER JAILED ON SPEED CHARGE

Edward L. Grafton, 47, prominent Los Angeles publisher and one of the partners of John S. McGroarty in first producing the San Gabriel Mission play, was arrested last night by Frank Vaughn, state motorcycle officer, on a speed charge. The man was booked in the Orange county jail on a charge of failing to sign his speed ticket. Grafton later made bail for $50, insuring his appearance in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court February 19.

According to officers, Grafton was arrested on a charge of speeding 43 miles an hour, near Costa Mesa.

Severe Quake Is Noted in Gotham

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—A severe earthquake was registered on the seismograph at Fordham university, beginning at 10:24 a. m. today, reaching a maximum intensity at 10:42 a. m. and lasting for one hour and a half. The center was approximately 1630 miles south of New York and is believed to have been in Central America or the West Indies.

Small Girl Cut By Window Glass

Miss Ethel Chassee, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Chassee, Garden Grove, was severely cut by glass, when she walked through a large plate glass window at the Chandler Music store here late Saturday. She was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where a physician attended her. She later was removed to her home. The child was reported as not being seriously hurt.

Court Notes

Court Action Filed
James Blackburn, of Fullerton, was plaintiff, today, in a superior court action filed against Joe Williams, to foreclose a chattel mortgage of $110 on a truck. Attorney Guss Hagenstein represents Blackburn.

Cruelty Is Charged
Charging extreme cruelty, Mrs. Goldie Underwood today had a divorce complaint on file in superior court against William L. Underwood, Buena Park automobile mechanic. In addition to asking for a decree, Mrs. Underwood requested a restraining order to prevent her husband from leaving jurisdiction of the court. She also wants custody of their two children. The Underwoods were married in 1916, in Okemah, Okla. They separated in Placencia May 3, 1925. Attorney James L. Hansen, of Huntington Beach, is counsel for Mrs. Underwood.

Files Divorce Suit
Mrs. Margaret E. Hessling, of Anaheim, was plaintiff, today, in a suit on file in superior court, asking divorce from Fred Hessling. She charges that he deserted her in 1922. They were married in Portland, Ore., in 1918. Attorneys Tinton and Cailor represent the plaintiff.

Husband Seeks Divorce
In a suit for divorce, on file today in superior court, Dallas E. Barnum, of Fullerton, charged his wife, Anna K. K. Barnum, with desertion. George H. Gobar is attorney for the plaintiff. The Barnums were married in Harrison, Neb., in 1917, and separated in Crawford, Neb., in 1920. Mrs. Barnum now resides in Junction City, Kas.

$2000 Estate Left
F. W. Bows, of Santa Ana, today filed a petition in superior court, through Attorney S. M. Davis, asking appointment as administrator of the estate left by his wife, the late Lottie Bows. The estate, valued at $2000, consists of property in Santa Ana. The husband and three children are legal heirs. They reside at 2004 Bush street.

The late William Essinger, who died in Laguna Beach, December 11, left an estate, including property in Los Angeles and Laguna Beach, and $18,178 in cash and personal property, to his brother, Charles Essinger, of Laguna Beach, and his sister, Margaret A. Mansdorfer, of Los Angeles. This was shown in a petition filed in superior court by Charles Essinger, represented by Attorney L. A. West, for appointment as administrator of the estate.

U. S. IN ATTACK ON BREAD 'TRUST'

the charges and cites the housewife as the greatest competitor to a bread monopoly.

The Continental company has 103 bakeries in 82 cities, stretching from Boston to Seattle and from Milwaukee to Shreveport, La.

The hearings are to be continued for several days before Examiner John W. Addison, of Washington. What was regarded as a direct reaction to the government's movement against the recently formed "food trusts" was seen here today on the New York stock exchange. California Packing shares broke 19 points to 156, following reports that the Postum Cereal company's offer of $185 a share for California Packing stock had been withdrawn by mutual agreement.

The sale of California Packing to Postum Cereal would have been another link in the huge food combines that have been formed, and it was understood that the offer of $185 a share was to be accepted.

Whether the negotiations for purchases of California Packing are to be resumed later or are definitely suspended is not definitely known. A statement is to be made later today.

HINT DISLOYALTY OF AIR OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Secretary of War Davis has ordered an investigation of alleged disloyalty of a group of army officers, who are supporting legislation urged by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of air service, it was learned at the department today.

Action by Davis follows the court-martial of Col. William Mitchell and may be followed by suspension of other air officers, it is believed. A group of officers, whose names are kept secret, is charged with writing letters to voters on air service stationery urging pressure on senators and congressmen in support of so-called Patrick legislation, establishing a separate air corps similar to the marine corps.

OPERA SINGER DIES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—Rafaela Franz, 45, contralto of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, New York City, died here today after a brief illness of pneumonia. She is survived by a husband, Joseph Franz, who was here with the singer.

A Scientific Treatment for NEURITIS

(Nerve or Muscular Pains)
The fact that so many people suffer with neuritis year after year, does not mean it is an ailment impossible to overcome. Rather it means that through lack of knowledge as to the true cause of neuritis—they have not used the correct treatment.

Neuritis is nerve inflammation—brought on by a weakened condition of the nerves. It cannot be permanently relieved by rubbing the painful spot.
Nor by medicines containing narcotics which, while they temporarily deaden the pain, leave the nerves in a still weaker condition.

To check neuritis, the nerves must be strengthened—built up. And that is exactly what Eopa Neuritis Tablets accomplish. An ethical remedy. Free from narcotics, bromides and coal tar products. Absolutely safe and effective. Write for free Eopa Neuritis

With Mrs. Briggs

In the cheery and delightful atmosphere of the home of Mrs. R. S.
Briggs of 1336 Cypress avenue, the members of the Inter Se club recently passed a pleasant afternoon.
Mrs. Briggs used pink sweet peas in artistic profusion throughout her home. With needlework and social chat, the hours sped swiftly until late afternoon, when the hostess spread card tables with dainty napery and served a two-course collation, carrying out the delicate sweet pea color motif in her nut cups and place cards in the shape of heart valentines. Tables were centered with crystal vases filled with sweet peas.

One new member, Mrs. Roy Langley, was welcomed into the ranks of the club, and regret was expressed that five members were unable to be present on account of illness.
Mrs. Walter Spangler of Peoria, Ill., who with her husband is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Hoff for the winter, was a guest of the club, the other members present being Mesdames Frank McCarter, Frank Cannon, Charles F. Mitchell,
George Richardson and A. B.
Chandler.

D. of A. R.

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution and their friends who attended the meeting held at the home of Mrs.
W. E. Otis, Saturday, spent a most interesting afternoon. Several items of business were discussed and expeditiously disposed of; the chapter voted $150 with which to buy a chair for the new auditorium at Washington, which is being built and furnished by the D.A.R., to supplement Memorial Continental hall.

Delegates were elected to attend the annual state conference, to be held in Los Angeles March 11 and 12. Very gratifying reports were made by the Americanization committee, telling of the members' presence at the naturalization class, at which the D.A.R. presents each newly made citizen with an American flag and a flag manual. At an Americanization party held in the Francis Willard junior high school, the refreshments were provided by the committee and the program was furnished by people of several nationalities. Miss Jennie Lasby traced the history of the Tacoma Africa dispute, giving many enlightening details of the conditions which led up to the present tangled state of affairs.

The speaker of the afternoon,
Baroness Lilly de Ropp, held the interest of her audience throughout her talk on Russia. She spoke with first hand knowledge on conditions there, and expressed loyalty to and admiration for the United States and the attitude it has taken toward Soviet Russia.
The Baroness has not only personal knowledge of Russia, but has read extensively the views expressed by other nations and brought many arguments in proof that the Soviet government is not a success, warning against the propaganda for Communism which is now being spread in the United States.

In the dining room the table, centered with a bowl of exquisite sweetpeas and presided over by
Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch and Mrs.
John Clarkson, was set with waity sandwiches of alluring shape and maitivating flavor, together with nuts, wafers and sandy. Here the guests enjoyed a social hour over the tea which was served by Mrs. Otis assisted by Mrs. C. A. Vance, Mrs. D. K.
Hammond, Mrs. Mac Robbins,
L. L. Whitson, Mrs. Clara Chapman and Mrs. H. C. Humphrey.

COAL BOOTLEGGER KILLED IN BLAST

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 8.—
Anthracite "bootlegging" operations has claimed another victim.
Adam Jankowski, 50, a striking miner, was killed just before he started on the day's operations, when dynamite which he was thawing over a stove, exploded.
The man's wife and 16-year-old daughter, Helen, were badly burned, while a son, Joseph, 12, escaped unhurt, although blown through the window of an adjoining room.

With anthracite selling at $14 a ton, the operation of old abandoned claims has proved profitable to miners engaged in the "bootlegging."

On the invitation of the Canadian government the third World's Poultry Congress will be held at Ottawa next year.

COAST GUARD MEN PLACED ON TRIAL

SEATTLE, Feb. 8.—After 17 years of service in the U. S. coast guard, Lt. Com. W. P. Wishaar, former master of the coast guard cutter Algonquin, and his chief executive officer, Lt. C. P. Smith, went on trial here today before a general court-martial, accused of juggling repair bids.

The charge involves repairs made to the Algonquin in a Portland shipbuilding yard a year ago. Repairs costing approximately $15,000 were made. The charges allege that a Seattle boat repair firm submitted a lower estimate for the work, but that Wishaar and Smith, through juggling bids, gave the contract to a Portland firm.

Other minor charges also are involved, one being that Wishaar failed to require drill on the part of the crew and another that he made an incorrect report on the report on the location of the capture of a rum boat in Grays Harbor over a year ago.

3 1/2 BILLIONS BORROWED
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The first official announcement of the amount of brokers' loans on stocks and bonds has been made by the New York Exchange, revealing a total of $3,513,174,154 borrowed in January.
This was considerably higher than had been expected.

Says Flag Should Fly Over Schools

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 8.—The flag should be hoisted above every school house of the state during class sessions, provided the weather permits. Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, says, in a letter sent to superintendents. The communication was written when the state school office was informed that some of the districts were not flying the colors, as provided in section 1014 of the state political code.

Maine employs 13,000 people in the pulp and paper industries.

Friends Plan Party As Surprise on Birthday

When Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lawrence accepted a supper invitation Saturday evening from Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Shidler, with a plan to go to the theater later in the evening, Mr. Lawrence was in complete ignorance of the fact that the invitation masked plans to surprise him later in the evening in honor of his birthday.

The quartette of young people had a merry little supper, and as time for starting to the theater drew near, it was suggested that they go past the Lawrence home at 605 Oak street and leave small Betty Alice Shidler with Jeanne and Eleanor, the two daughters of the Lawrences, who were in the care of their grandmother, Mrs. Cubley. The home seemed quite as usual—there were no unusual lights and no cars were parked in the driveway to indicate the presence of guests, but when the host entered the door, he speedily learned the difference for over a score of friends were quietly awaiting his entry, ready to call out their birthday greetings.

The merry evening which followed, was marked by different games and dancing to radio music. At the refreshment hour, Mrs. Lawrence served sandwiches and salad with coffee, hot chocolate and two delicious birthday cakes. The host was showered with a number of attractive gifts from his friends. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chesney, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Herrin, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Swanger, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Frisby, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Shidler and Ivan Swanger of this city; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Armstrong, of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Albright, Miss Opal Flanagan, Curtis Flanagan, of Whittier; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cubley and Miss Lillian Cubley, Corona, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Higgins of Monterey Park.

Guests Present Gift For New Home

The pretty new home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Daniell on Orange avenue, was the scene of a pleasant gathering late last week when a group of twenty members of the Woman's auxiliary of Stereo and Electro Unions of Los Angeles, came to this city to spend the day with Mrs. Daniell and express their interest in the new home.

At mid-day a covered dish luncheon was served, with each member contributing her favorite dish. Pasadena, Glendale, Lynnwood, Long Beach, Watts, Altadena and Los Angeles were some of the points represented in the auxiliary. The climax of the day came when the hostess presented with a handsome gift from the guests who wished the organization to be represented in the new home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

One of their delightful social afternoons will be enjoyed Thursday by members of Hermosa circle who will meet at 2 o'clock with Mrs. M. C. Hoyt, 1414 Spurgeon street. Bridge will be the entertainment feature with sewing for those to whom cards do not appeal. With Mrs. Hoyt will be identified a hostess committee composed of Mrs. Cora Cavins, Mrs. C. E. Moore, Mrs. W. S. Decker and Mrs. Herman Zabel.

A special meeting of St. Elizabeth guild of the Church of the Messiah has been called for tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the parish room of the church. Miss Jean Battarby will be hostess. On the following night the guild will sponsor an apron party in the social rooms, with each guest to proffer a penny for each inch of her waist measurement, the pennies to be tucked in the pockets of wee aprons sent out several days ago. Those who received no aprons, may present their pennies informally, it was stated by the committee.

The Men's club of the First Baptist church will have ladies' night Tuesday, February 9. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock and at 7:30 o'clock Dr. Lincoln A. Farris, former pastor of the First Methodist church, San Diego, will lecture on "Men of the Hills." Dr. Farris will tell of his experiences as a minister in the Adirondacks. Any one who wishes may attend the lecture.

The regular W.C.T.U. meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Theo Winbigler, 207 East Ninth street. As Tuesday will be Frances Willard memorial day a special program in the charge of Mrs. Winbigler and Mrs. C. W. Burns will be given, a feature of which will be a talk by the Rev. W. L. H. Benton of the church of the Messiah. There will also be special music.

Wedding at Stanford Interests Friends In Santa Ana

MEMORIAL chapel at Stanford University, was the scene of an impressively beautiful wedding ceremony on Saturday, February 6 when at high noon, Miss Elizabeth Hervey Roper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brownell Roper of Los Angeles, became the bride of Eric Jordan, younger son of David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of the university.

Dr. D. Charles Gardner, university chaplain, officiated, as he has in so many campus marriages at the famous university. Miss Roper was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Roper, as honor maid, while Knight Starr Jordan assisted his brother as best man. Only relatives and very intimate friends were present at the reading of the nuptial service which was followed by a wedding breakfast at "Serra House," the Jordan home, with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brownell Roper as hosts.

The bride is a Stanford graduate, completing her work last June. She is a member of Alpha Phi sorority, as was her mother before her, Mrs. Roper also having been a Stanford graduate of the class of 1897. Norman B. Roper received his degree in engineering in the previous year and later traveled in various parts of the world in his capacity as electrical engineer. Both the Roper and Hervey families have been prominently identified with the history of this city, the home of both Norman Roper and his wife, the former Miss Anne Hervey. Hence the romance of their daughter and the son of the famous Stanford chancellor, is of particular interest, locally.

Eric Jordan, like his esteemed father, is following a scientific career. He is curator of paleontology in the California Academy of Science at San Francisco and is working for an advanced degree. He graduated from Stanford with the class of 1924 and is a Delta Upsilon.

Birthday Surprise Planned by Friends

A pleasant surprise planned by friends of Mrs. M. Hamann of Orange for her birthday late last week was made possible by luring Mrs. Hamann from her home on pretext of a shopping trip with Miss Amelia Burkmeier. Upon their return, they found a host of friends assembled to extend birthday greetings.

The happy afternoon which followed was enlivened by many reminiscences of old times. Guests took pleasure in showing the surprised hostess with many pretty gifts. At a late hour, two daughters of Mrs. Hamann, Miss Gertrude Hamann of the home and Mrs. M. Lypps of Garden Grove, served dainty refreshments.

Mrs. J. Rudolph and Mrs. Marie Lieberman of this city were present as were Mrs. Oehlke, Mrs. G. Young, Mrs. L. Loptein, Mrs. C. Schroeder, Miss L. Young, Miss Anna Young and Miss Amelia Burkmeier, Orange; Mrs. E. Wisser and daughter, Emma Wisser, Anaheim, and Mrs. M. Lypps, Garden Grove, together with the hostess, Mrs. Hamann and Miss Gertrude Hamann.

and their friends are cordially invited to attend a colonial party to be given at the home of Mrs. C. M. Rowland, 706 South Birch street, Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Those who have colonial costumes are asked to wear them.

The Tustin W.C.T.U. will not meet Thursday as was planned but will be the guest of the Motherhood club, Tuesday, 3 o'clock, at the kindergarten building.

The annual meeting of the Altar society of St. Joseph's parish for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year, will be held on Wednesday afternoon, February 10 at the home of Mrs. Joseph Houpt, 821 Garfield street, with Mrs. May Groover as co-hostess. All women of the parish are given a cordial invitation to attend the meeting.

The Jolly Dozen "500" club will be entertained on Thursday afternoon, February 11, by Mrs. E. B. Collier, 117 East Washington avenue.

The regular meeting of Capistrano Institute, No. 104, Y.L.L., will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Knights of Columbus hall, when final arrangements will be made for the Valentine dance to be held Thursday evening, February 11 in Knights of Columbus hall, will be made.

SUCCESS OF METAL LACE SHOWN IN SPRING STYLES

When fashions are so very feminine as they are today, and when every tendency is to make them more graceful and softer in line, lace is bound to be fashionable.

Lace is the most feminine of all trimmings and one that has been decidedly neglected the past few seasons.

When the craze for beading and embroidery and colorful trimmings swept the country it overshadowed lace and made it of little consideration except on the lingerie frock and the negligee.

Last season dyed laces were introduced and became very popular for afternoon wear, but made very little headway for evening. This season metal laces were brought out in much softer weaves and more interesting patterns than before, and they are growing in popularity.

Rich Effect Gold or silver lace, in the light weaves, gives a very rich effect, and brightened with colorful flow, makes an exceedingly youthful combination as well.

Debutantes and the younger set very much prefer the metal laces to the metal fabrics or brocades that are harder and more lustrous and more mature in feeling. And new, metal laces, and dyed laces having successfully fought for their position, the rest of the lace family is staging a comeback even in white, ecru and the natural lace tints.

Some of the newest evening gowns are featuring lace, not for the entire costume, but for trimmings. As an example of the effective use of lace, attention is directed to the model photographed on the right.

Moulded Bodice This dress is made of silver cloth maintaining the slim silhouette by means of a moulded bodice and fullness introduced below the hips. Diameter at waist 31 1/2 inches.

mond-shaped sections of cream-colored lace are applied to the skirt so as to give the effect of godets and to break the straight hemline into points.

At the shoulder is a panel, offering a most satisfying substitute for a scarf or for a sleeve. It may be wound about the arm in the French manner or worn about the neck, or may even be tied on a bow at the shoulder, which is another French idea.

Here is a dress that is simple enough to please the most exacting, and yet it has distinction and decided novelty. For the woman who dislikes ornateness, but who demands that a costume have individuality and chic as well as simplicity, this is ideal.

Street Costume

The street costume at the left is also designed for the woman who prefers line to trimming. It is one of the new jumper costumes with very long blouse and belt at the hipline, made up in the new soft tweed that is as soft as kasha and comes in the most delightful colors as well as blurred checks and stripes.

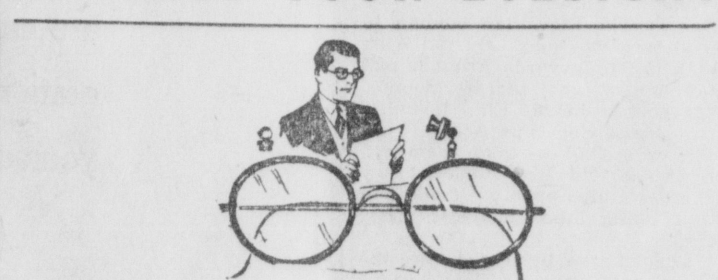

With such a costume the wearer can do no better than stick to the tiny felt hat. Both these models are designed for the southland, but they are also advance spring models.

Old Southern Dinner Given to Celebrate Trio of Events

In honor of three important family events was the delicious chicken dinner given yesterday by Mrs. I. A. Meyers, 705 West First street. The occasion was the birthday of Mr. Meyers, Mrs. Meyers' recent birthday and their wedding anniversary.

Because Mr. Meyers was born in North Carolina and because Mrs. Meyers was born in Tennessee the elaborate dinner was cooked and served in true southern fashion.

The table was centered with a beautiful bouquet of carnations and ferns, favorite flower of Mr. Meyers. Paul Rogers, superintendent of the California Cordage company of Orange, who is also from North Carolina, presented Mr. and Mrs. Meyers with a silver drinking set in honor of their birthdays and wedding anniversary. Quite the center of attraction was Yunieta, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyers who wore a charming little frock of peach orandy. The afternoon was spent in conversation in which reminiscences of life in the old South, figured.

TRY THIS ON YOUR BACK

If you are sick and wish to get well, assume a sitting position, arch the neck and head forward and down, drop the arms between the knees. Then have some friend or relative feel of your spine starting at the top and working downward, using only the soft tip of the middle finger of either hand, keeping the finger stiff and rigid. Start at the top of the spine one or two inches on either side of the protruding processes and press or push the finger firmly into the back. Continue on down the spine. Certain nerves will be very tender under this pressure, others will show no tenderness at all. Why? Here is the secret.

There are 31 pairs of nerves coming through the spine. If any of these show tenderness under the pressure of your finger it is a positive sign of inflammation or pinched nerves. Rest assured there is either weakness, sickness, or disease in some part of your body. The pressure is caused by some bone of your spine being out of place. You can't fool yourself on the test for this reason—at any point on your spine where the bones are in place there is no tenderness, but again, if there is tenderness at all, make up your mind that some of the bones are out of position or subluxated and you are in need of immediate attention.

We, as Palmer -X-Ray Chiropractors, have made a special study of the spine and the nervous system and realize the importance of keeping the nerves free from pressure in order to have and maintain a healthy body. Many individuals think that because we work exclusively on the spine, we cannot correct their particular condition of sickness or trouble, not realizing that every part of the body receives its power to function, or its life, directly from the main line—these nerves. Our work is to find these pinched nerves which are causing your trouble, and remove this pressure. We do not use medicine, surgery, osteopathy, massage, violet-ray, electronic reaction or any other adjunct. Only our hands upon your spine. We do not twist your neck, pull your legs or use hammers.

When you go to a Chiropractor insist that an X-Ray be taken so the work will be specific, as it is foolish to rely upon guesswork when your body and health are at stake. Come to our office, we will gladly take an X-Ray of your spine, bearing your name, and explain the exact cause of your trouble in detail. This is free and is only to show you how to get well the pleasant way.

Peasant Wives Often Disappointing to Mates on Reaching America

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. — New clothes for old, new faces for old, new wives for old—these are the wares turned out by the beauty mill at Ellis Island.

One petticoat for six, bobbed hair for long, kid slippers for peasant brogues—every possible weapon is given the incoming peasant wife, for her fight against the formidable competition of the American flapper.

It is the job of Mrs. Ludmilla K. Foxlee, representing the Y. W. C. A. in the social service room at Ellis Island, to beautify immigrant women for the dramatic meeting with husbands from whom they have been separated for many years.

She Bridges Gap.

It is her task to bridge the gap between the fresh, rosy cheeked women whose husbands have held in memory during the long absence, and the tired, faded, prematurely old women who follow faithfully to Ellis Island, bringing with them as their stock in the adventure, only love and simple trust in their men.

Ten or 15 years in America make a good deal of difference in a man's ideal womanhood. The beauty, the clothes, the spirit of eternal youth that characterize American women are impressed upon him, so that the shock when he meets the little peasant wife with her shawl over her head is sometimes so great that the entire future of the family is endangered.

The white walls of the government buildings at Ellis Island have seen many meetings anticipated with tremulous hope through long years of loneliness turn into stark tragedy.

Disappointment in Eyes.

Sometimes, says Mrs. Foxlee, even when a husband struggles against his disappointment, the wife sees it written in his eyes and insists upon going back alone to her native village, rather than burden him.

"Most of the women are pathetic in their eagerness to be made beautiful for their husbands," says Mrs. Foxlee. "They put on American clothes, try a little powder, and let us rearrange their hair and dance before the mirror."

"But sometimes old habit is strong, and they will not remove the peasant shawl or the voluminous petticoats."

"They often regard the straight American dress with its revelations of the figure, as indecent, and they will sometimes fight for their six or eight petticoats against all inducements."

The Czech-Slovakian woman in the picture wore six skirts, each measuring four yards around, and totaling a weight of 15 pounds, when she landed at Ellis Island.

She was glad to take them off, for as she told Mrs. Foxlee, "they make one's hips ache as if one had been doing the heaviest field work."

Marishka, the little girl in the picture, was wearing four petticoats, and hopped out of them into the straight American frock, clapping her hands.

In the village from which these people came, 14 petticoats are often worn at once.

Mrs. Foxlee insists that the man is not to be blamed if he is shocked by the appearance of his wife.

"Sometimes it is the husband that enlists my deeper sympathies," she says. "He comes here bravely, fighting against his qualms, perhaps renouncing attachments formed in this country, in order to be loyal to the woman he left behind him."

"Often the women arrive without the slightest idea of the crisis they are facing. In Europe, one marries a man and then lets down, getting old as soon as one feels like it."

Faces Marred by Toil.
"The women arrive with faces marked by hard work and privation, with coarse hands and broken nails, and often with half of their teeth missing, for in peasant Europe the only remedy for a toothache is to pull the tooth."

"Their hair is pulled straight back, what there is of it. The constant wearing of the shawl thins and dulls the hair dreadfully."

written her not to appear in this bobbed-headed country until she had her hair cut. But she was heart-broken and bewildered about it all."

Low Round-Trip Fares Announced

The Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads announce that special low round-trip fares will be made effective because of Washington's birthday, February 22. The fares will be on a basis of one and one-third the one way fare for the round trip between all points west of Ogden, Salt Lake, Albuquerque and El Paso, where the one way fare is $30.00 or less. Tickets will be sold February 20, 21 and 22, with final return limit February 24. Washington's birthday being on Monday, many will have an opportunity to take advantage of the reduced fares for week-end journeys.

PROOF OF NEW UNIVERSE GIVEN BY ASTRONOMER

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Proof that another universe, with stars and nebulae in a heavens like ours, exists out in space, inconceivably distant from the earth, has been presented by Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, in the Astro-Physical Journal, publication of the University of Chicago, it is announced.

Dr. Hubble made his observations at Mount Wilson observatory. Measuring the distance from the earth to the exterior galaxy, which is similar in many ways to our own, although entirely out of the earth's galactic system, Dr. Hubble found that it is about 700,000 light years away, or approximately 66,609,872,000,000,000 miles. According to his calculations, it is 4000 light years across. Its general appearance is like that of the Magellanic clouds, the mass of nebulae like the Milky Way in the skies of the southern hemisphere.

This galaxy was first seen in 1884 by Prof. E. E. Barnard, who at that time was on the staff of Yerkes observatory.

POST OFFICE IN S. A. PROPOSED IN RESOLUTION BEFORE HOUSE

Congressman Swing Urges $250,000 Appropriation For Site and Building

C. OF C. SECRETARY GETS COPY OF BILL

Point Out Necessity for Better Quarters As Result of More Business

That appropriation of $250,000 for purchase of a site and construction of a post office building in Santa Ana is proposed in a special resolution, introduced in the house of representatives by Congressman Phil Swing, was revealed here today by receipt, by George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, of a copy of the resolution.

The bill limits the cost of the site to $25,000, with the balance to be used in construction of the building. The resolution was referred to the committee on public buildings and grounds.

The bill reads as follows:

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby authorized to acquire, by purchase, condemnation or otherwise, a suitable site and cause to be erected thereon a suitable building, including fire-proof vaults, mechanical equipment and approaches, complete, for the use and accommodation of the United States post office at Santa Ana, Orange county, state of California, at a cost not to exceed $250,000, of which not to exceed $25,000 may be expended for such site."

In a personal letter to the secretary, Congressman Swing said that no city in his district was included in the building bill reported to congress.

"I have introduced a bill in behalf of your city, in order that your city might have its claims presented to congress," the congressman writes. "The administration bill does not take care of meritorious cases in my district, whereas if the jurisdiction over the selection of sites is retained by congress, I feel confident one and possibly two cities in my district could be taken care of."

In commenting on the general public building bill introduced, Chairman Elliott, of the committee, called attention to the fact that the last general bill was passed on March 4, 1913, that bill carrying an aggregate of approximately $40,000,000. He also called attention to the fact that business of the post office department had doubled in the last 10 years. Commenting further, the chairman says:

"This increased postal business, including parcel post, demands and must have space in which it may be efficiently and economically carried on. During the holidays, for the last few years, a number of cities have handled heavy parcel post business on the lawn or sidewalk, under the protection of guards, but without protection against bad weather. This increased volume of postal business has forced the use of basements and sub-basements and has brought about a congested condition in some cities that is a disgrace. Mezzanine floors have been placed in many buildings in efforts to furnish more room for employees, but they have, in most instances, proven unsatisfactory."

U. S. HELD IN NO DANGER OF PLANE ATTACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—America's oceans effectively protect the United States from any danger of having her cities extensively bombed from the air in time of war, Secretary of War Davis said, in a speech at the National Republican club here.

Davis based his statement on expert opinion that airplanes, carrying bombs, have a maximum range of 1200 miles. A base within 500 miles of the United States would have to be seized, the war secretary pointed out, adding that the Morrow board report specifically said this nation was "in no danger of any air attack from any potential enemy of menacing strength."

The army air service has been greatly favored in the war department's reduction program, Davis said.

"Its reductions have been but 44 per cent since the passage of the national defense act, in 1920, compared with 57 per cent for the whole regular army and 62 per cent for the infantry."

Davis said the army wanted more new planes, but that "if tax reduction and the purchase of large numbers of new planes cannot both be accomplished at once, our duty, as soldiers, is to accept the decision and spend the money allotted to us as efficiently as possible."

KING PREDICTS EARLY WORK ON WATER PROJECT

Indorsement by President Insures Enterprise Will Be Undertaken, Is View

Indorsement given the Boulder dam project by the administration of President Coolidge is virtual assurance that the big enterprise will be undertaken in the immediate future, in the opinion of Lyman King, of Redlands, candidate for lieutenant governor, who was a member of the Southern California party visiting the dam sites on the Colorado river last Monday and Tuesday.

"Interests opposed to the building of Boulder dam have succeeded until very lately in keeping the project submerged in politics," King said to a Register representative who accompanied the party. "This, the last great natural resource of the southwest, has been the plaything of men who subordinated the public weal to their own selfishness. But almost over night the aspect changed. With the magnanimity of a truly great man, Secretary Herbert Hoover, of the department of commerce, appeared before the U. S. senate committee on behalf of the great enterprise, sponsored in large measure by his political enemy Senator Hiram Johnson, of California. He told the committee that this great project must no further be delayed."

"And then came Secretary Work of the department of the interior, with the same kind of message and with a plan of financing it that is agreeable to the government, and which removes the last objection of those who would oppose. It is an unmistakable conclusion that President Coolidge is putting the force of his administration squarely behind the project, and I, for one, look to see legislation enacted at the present session of congress which will cause the wheels of progress to turn."

"As to the details, I gladly leave them to the fine men who are now instrumental in pushing their project to the front. Suffice it that our representatives shall be on guard to see that this last great natural resource of our section shall be developed on such lines as shall be for the greatest and best good of the people."

Blood Stains On Mystery Machine Prove Only Jam

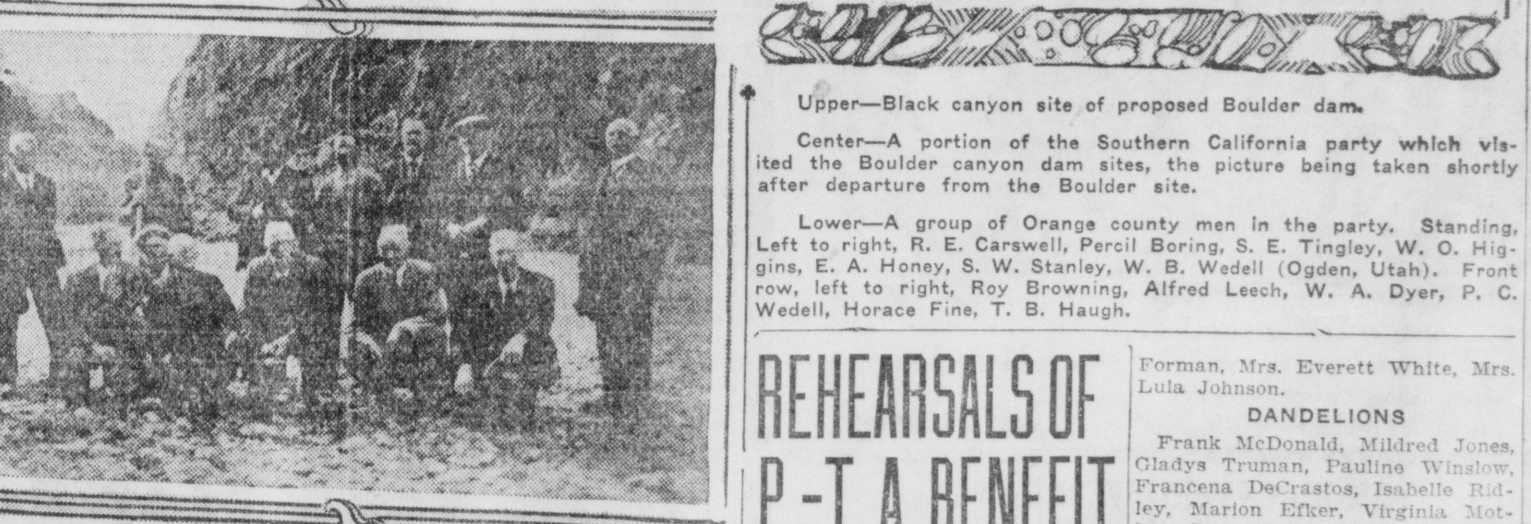

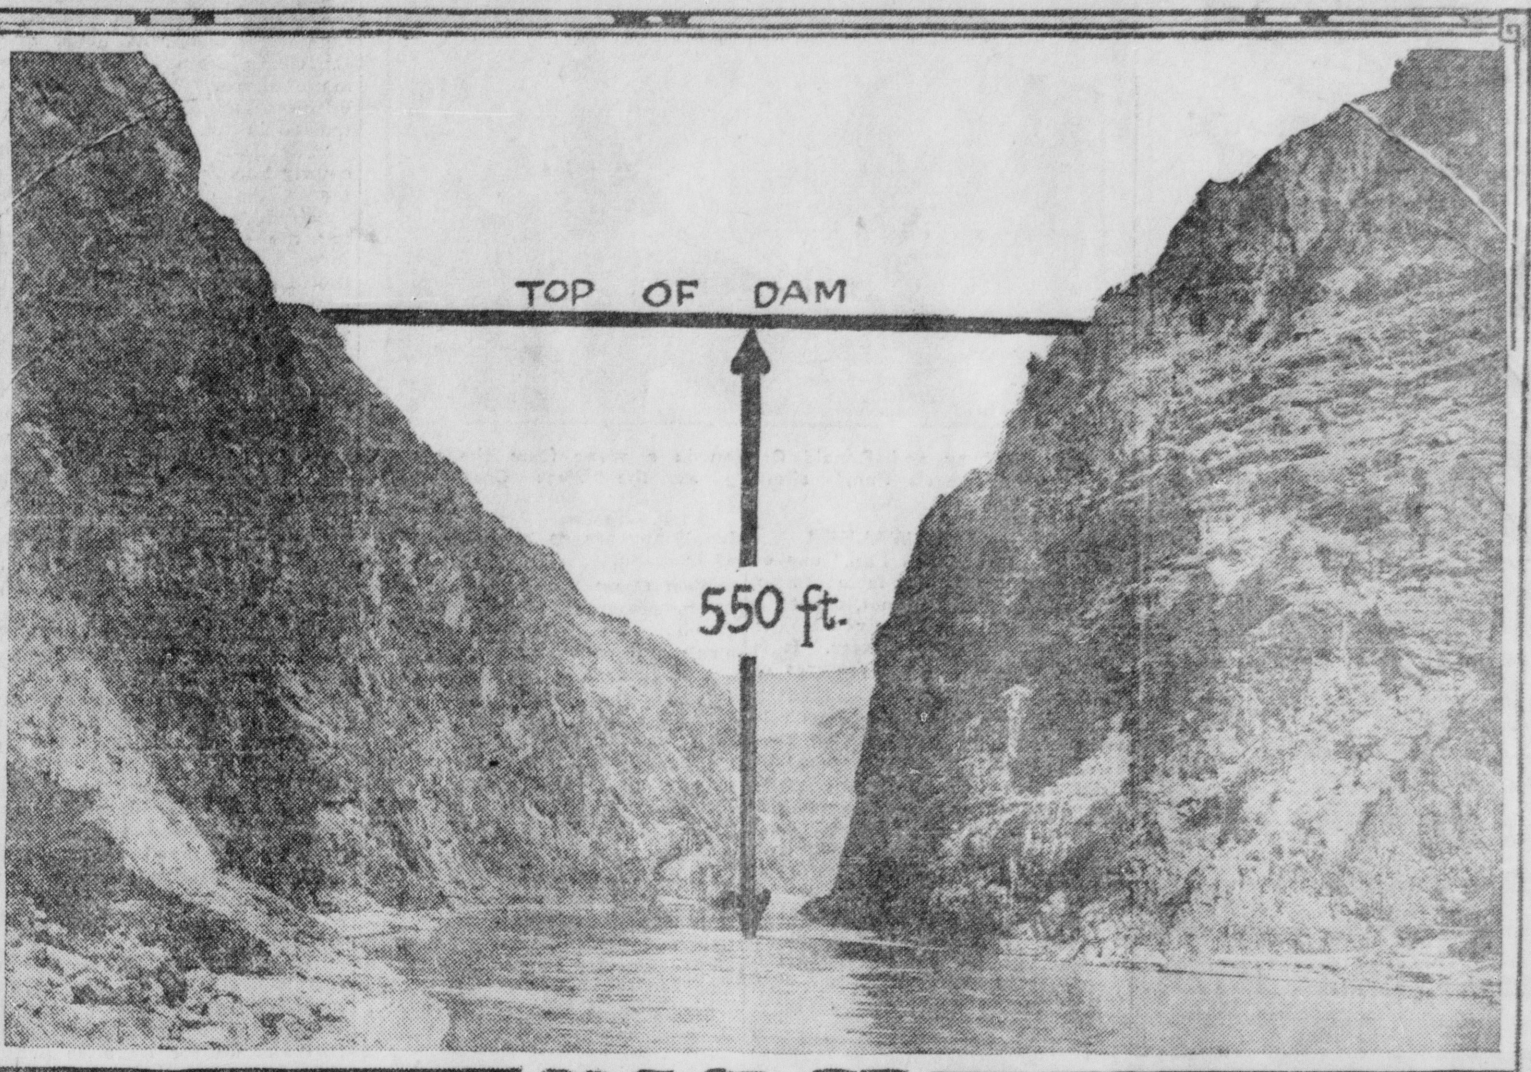

Reports of a "blood-stained" automobile, abandoned last night, near Fourth and Garfield streets, sent police hurrying to the place, and the "mystery" car was brought back to the police station, where it was found that the blood stains were either red wine stains or strawberry jam. Officers have not determined which.

The car was registered to Arthur Haines, Anaheim. The machine will be kept at the police station pending the arrival of the owner to claim it.

PROSPERITY OF SOUTHLAND IS DEPENDENT ON COLORADO DAM

Portion of Waters Should Be Diverted for Domestic Use, Writer Points Out

PARTY ON VISIT TO BIG PROJECT SITES

Details of Black Canyon And Boulder Plans to Utilize River Flow Set Out

By HORACE FINE.
The star of Southern California's future and permanent prosperity and development is hitched to the Boulder dam project, on the Colorado river, and diverting of a portion of the waters of that turbulent stream to the Southland for domestic uses.
That statement is undebatable, in my opinion.
As far as a layman can determine from a superficial investigation, building of a dam on the Colorado is a feasible project, with construction of the dam either at Boulder canyon or at Black canyon. While the subject of location is one for engineers to determine, Black canyon seems to me to be the most preferable site.

Visits Proposed Sites.
These are my observations, following a visit to the Boulder and Black canyon sites last Monday and Tuesday, in company with a group of approximately 90 men and women representing farm bureaus and chambers of commerce in the counties of Orange, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Imperial.

To get the site points clear in the minds of readers, let me say that both are properly in Boulder canyon, the Black canyon site being approximately 20 miles down the river from the Boulder site.

Government surveys have determined that the bedrock at Boulder is 123 feet below the river bed and about 100 feet below the river bed at Black canyon.
At Boulder, sheer walls of rock rise 1500 feet on the Arizona side and around 800 feet on the California side. The height of the rock walls in Black canyon is around 600 to 700 feet on each side. In either instance, the walls are higher than is necessary to accommodate a dam of the dimensions that have been discussed officially and unofficially. Heights mentioned have varied from 500 to 600 feet.

Estimates on Cost.
According to the best information I could get on the trip, estimates of the cost of construction of a dam vary from approximately $90,000,000 at Boulder, to $70,000,000 for a 550-foot dam at Black canyon. I was told that George W. Goethals, engineer in charge of construction of the Panama canal, has declared that the dam at Boulder could be constructed for about $90,000,000 by blasting and sliding down into the river. The opinion was expressed that this could be built without the use of concrete, the material tying itself, with possibly cementing being further aided by silt of the river that may percolate through the gigantic structure.

The Boulder site is 48 miles from Las Vegas, Nev., the county seat and principal city of Clark county, and 25 miles from St. Thomas, a community with 400 souls, a short distance north of Las Vegas. It is claimed construction of a rail line from St. Thomas to take supplies in for the Boulder site would involve a considerable outlay of

GRAND JURY TALKS ON FIRM'S AFFAIRS

Of interest to local investors in the J. H. Corbin and company stock selling concern, until recently doing business in this city, is a news item published yesterday in a San Bernardino paper to the effect that the company's affairs in that locality were informally discussed by the San Bernardino county grand jury in an executive session.

The new story goes on to say that, adhering strictly to the policy of secrecy, the jurors would not state whether a request for an inquiry into the operations of the Corbin company and its representatives in San Bernardino had been received. It is known that the Corbin case, however, was discussed in the jury room, the item says.

Talc suitable for sawing into crayons and pencils is found mainly in North Carolina and Georgia, but some pencil stock is produced in California, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland and a number of other states.

Poultry Men To Consider Plan For Insurance

An insurance policy protecting poultrymen against theft, fire and transportation losses has been developed by officials of the farm bureau, co-operating with a local company, and will be submitted to the poultrymen of the county when they meet at Costa Mesa, Tuesday night. The policy is still in a formative period and the poultrymen will be asked to poke holes in the plan at the meeting.

"This is something entirely new," states E. H. Little of La Habra, who is representing the bureau in the matter. "I have been unable to find where the plan has been tried before. It is thought that we can protect poultrymen at the rate of 5 cents a head, based on an average number owned by the poultryman during the year, but there are many ramifications to the hazard of which the insurance company does not know and it may be necessary to turn our plans upside down. However, the whole matter rests with the poultrymen and the question of how badly they want insurance against theft."

The entire business session of the evening will be devoted to discussion of this subject. Mrs. Irene Anderson of Corona will discuss brooding problems. Mrs. Anderson is a practical raiser and has been successful in this line.

Stage and Screen

May McAvoy and Ronald Colman in a scene from the picture, "Lady Windermere's Fan," showing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER
"Lady Windermere's Fan," one of the loveliest flowers from Oscar Wilde's artificial bouquet, opened a three-day run yesterday at the West Coast-Walker theater. It is one of the really great pictures of the year.

Irene Rich plays the famous role of Mrs. Erlynne, the sportive, fascinating, reckless woman, who became known as the most dangerous woman in London; a great role in which Miss Rich proves herself a truly great actress. Colman has the role of the cynical wordling, Lord Darlington, trapped by his love for Lady Windermere. Miss McAvoy is the adorable Lady Windermere, the loss of whose fan forms the basis for the drama. And Lytell appears as her distinguished husband.

West Coast Theaters, Inc., offer a new presentation conceived by Fanchon and Marco, which is also on the bill, called "Candle Light."

It is an exceedingly beautiful and fantastic stage number, offered in a new style with a lavish and decorative setting. Boyce Combs, "The American Prince of Wales," appears as master of ceremonies, introducing Mildred Costello, California's Greatest Spanish Dancer in new and original steps; Rose Valyda, the Sophie Tucker of song and radio, in her double-voiced rendition of a popular number; Arnold Grazer dances his way through "Moments of National Dances" in new and interesting style.

The presentation closes with a surprise ensemble number, which includes the "Candle Light" girls in a very beautiful and novelty rendering of "Sleepy Time Gal." The costumes are excellent, and the entire presentation is one of the best ever staged on the West Coast circuit.

WEST END THEATER

"One Way Street," adaptation of the popular Beale Davis novel, which opened at the West End theater yesterday, is an excellent example of the modern novel properly treated in screen form.

More reserve is required, of a screen presentation of a story than in the written form. But Earl Hudson, under whose supervision "One Way Street" was produced, has kept a firm grip on the dramatic problem without dodging about the border line of sensationalism.

Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson have the leading roles, and make the most of the opportunities offered by the unusual situations and the brilliant setting of London society. Praise is due also to Marjorie Daw, Lumsden Hare, Thomas Holding, Dorothy Cumming and Mona Kingsley for their characterizations.

Young Ben Lyon fully upholds his share of the honors along with that tried artist, Anna Q. Nilsson, which is by way of saying that he has measured up to what might have been expected of him in this, his first featured role.

The story is that of a beautiful English society leader who finds herself facing the tragedy of growing old. The tragedy is brought home with the added force of jealousy when she finds the youth whose social advancement she has been aiding falling in love with a younger woman. The story reaches a smashing climax with her scheme for vengeance.

YOST THEATER

Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are the attractions tonight at the Yost theater in "The Scarlet Saint," a picture which closes tonight.

"The Scarlet Saint" an adaptation of Gerald Beaumont's magazine story, "The Lady Who Played Fidele," is a pleasing and entertaining picture which has been well directed and one which contains a story that is gripping and really powerful. Above all, whoever selected the cast did an admirable job. It is rarely that a cast so well fitted for their roles comes to the screen.

The picture is built around a situation in which we find a young American girl betrothed by her father to an Austrian nobleman, but who is madly in love with a handsome young American. Of course, the difficulties of the young couple are eventually solved, as they should be, but in the solution an excellent bit of script writing and direction has been done. There are thrills aplenty, tense situations, scenes which draw the tears, scenes which double you up with laughter.

Miss Astor, as the young American girl, wins the sympathy of her audience and holds it. Hughes appears to a better advantage than the writer has yet seen him as the handsome young lover of Mary.

SUGGESTS CITY UNION TO SPUR HARBOR ACTION

The incorporation of Santa Ana, Newport Beach, Balboa, Costa Mesa, Huntington Beach, Talbert and intervening territory into one large town, a Greater Santa Ana, to develop Orange county harbor on a big scale, was advocated before the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce today, at noon, by R. L. Obarr, San Francisco cigar manufacturer, Huntington Beach business man and former city trustee in the beach town.

"The Development of Orange county harbor is the premier issue facing the county today," Obarr declared, "and it is only by welding the coast towns together, to form a strong political unit, that the harbor project can be put over on the scale which it deserves."

"Orange county has been trying to do things on too small a scale. The man with the big money will not look at Orange county because of the puny efforts at development," Obarr said. Little opposition to the project is expected by Obarr, if it is handled in a suitable manner. He does not believe that outlying communities will object to becoming a part of a greater Santa Ana.

"Very little was done with San Pedro harbor until Los Angeles took it over," the speaker declared. He added that towns, which had been incorporated into the city of Los Angeles, had not regretted the step but had progressed by leaps and bounds.

"One big city, operating as a unit, can develop the harbor in a big way, much better than a number of cities, with different ideas, can develop the harbor on a small scale," Obarr contended.

He pointed out that in the cities mentioned, practically every necessity for the development of the harbor is included. Huntington Beach would supply fuel and oil for factories and for shipment. Santa Ana and the intervening territory to Costa Mesa would be built up with residences. Newport and Balboa would handle factories and the shipping end of the greater city. Santa Ana also would be the business center of the community.

The incorporation of the three towns would increase the population of Santa Ana to about 60,000 people, it was pointed out by Obarr. He declared that people in the communities which would be affected would realize the possibilities and advantages of such a consolidation and the big things which would result.

The proposed consolidation of Santa Ana, Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and other towns was taken under consideration by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce.

KNOCK OUT GAS STATION MAN AND LOOT TILL

A bandit, accompanied by another man and two women companions, robbed the Keeler service station, 1140 South Main street, of $49.78 in cash, and a number of checks, Saturday night, after knocking out Kemp Keeler, brother of the proprietor, with a black-jack, according to a police report.

A large machine drove into the place, shortly after 9 o'clock, and a man, who later was described to police, got out and asked to purchase a rear light for his machine. When Keeler turned to get it, he was hit over the head and knocked senseless.

When Keeler recovered, the wash register had been looted and the big car, with its occupants, was gone.

Police learned that the party inquired the direction to San Diego from a grocery store, directly across the street from the Keeler station, and it was here that an almost complete description of the man was obtained.

Keeler was at the station alone.

Our Neighbors

ESCONDIDO. — Escondido as a shipping point for Valley Center, is now in a rubber producing section. The first carload of rubber plant, known to the trade as guayule, was shipped from Escondido Monday evening. Thus it started the production of a commodity that at present is one of the most valuable on the market, owing to the great demand and high prices for rubber. The local rubber has been growing for a number of years at the "rubber plantation" in Valley Center. Markets have not been right for the shipment of the product until this time.

SAN DIEGO. — Completion of a paved highway from the "mountains to the sea" by the resurfacing of less than 12 miles of the dirt road on the route from Julian to the ocean is promised by the board of county supervisors in the early spring. Money is available from the tax levy and the county surveyor has been instructed to prepare plans and specifications. Pavement required to finish the highway includes 2.6 miles between Julian and Santa Ysabel and nine miles between Ramona and Ballea. The latter gap will be paved on the northern route by way of Rotan, in compliance with petitions, because grades are easier than on the southern route.

BURBANK. — Petitions for annexation to Los Angeles have been received by the promoters of the move and organization work is being complete. While the annexationists are busy preparing plans for the campaign, the city administration and those business men who are opposed to losing their identity in a big city, are expressing confidence that the move will be defeated. They cite the fact that the annexationists have to overcome a lead of nearly two and a half to one to win. Many of those formerly in favor of annexing to Los Angeles have switched and are now opposed, according to statements of city officials.

SAN BERNARDINO. — More than 8000 children are enrolled in the grammar and high schools of San Bernardino elementary and secondary school districts. The January attendance reports show an enrollment of 8882 pupils. Enrollment figures for the fourth month of the 1925-26 year, end about January 5, show an increase of 272 pupils over the preceding month. The total number of pupils in the elementary schools of the district is 4323, according to the city enrollment figures. The total number of students enrolled in classes in the junior high school of the district is 1593.

PROSPERITY IS

Advantages of Black Canyon. The Black canyon site seems to have a number of advantages, not the least of which is its accessibility from Las Vegas by rail and by truck. It is approximately 35 miles from Las Vegas.

Another advantage appears to be in the difference in the depth of the bedrock, as compared with the Boulder site—approximately 30 feet, and the dam must rest on bedrock to be permanent and effective.

Twenty miles more of storage basin is another feature, although the additional capacity that would result from a dam at the lower site is a mere bagatelle as compared with the total area of the basin.

The basin would be about the same in either instance, it being estimated that the confined waters would be backed up for a distance of approximately 80 miles from the Boulder site, and to about the same distance with a dam at Black canyon. The basin would be approximately 30 miles wide and would store from 26,000,000 to 32,000,000 acre feet of water. It was said that virtually the only difference between the two dam sites, as far as the upper end of the basin is concerned, is that, if the dam is built at Boulder, the water would cover Bridges canyon, which Arizona wants to dam. If the Black canyon site is used, the backed up water would extend nearly to Bridges canyon, and would interfere with the Arizona project. The dam at Bridges canyon would not be across the Colorado river, and merely would impound water flowing through Bridges canyon.

Would Inundate Town. Under either project, the town of St. Thomas would be inundated, probably 50 feet below the surface of the water when the basin is completely filled.

It is the belief of engineers that, with creation of the basin, most of the silt of the muddy river would be precipitated at the point where the water starts into the basin, the silt having a tendency to settle when the flow struck the still water.

According to estimates, it would take 240 years for the silt deposits to fill the basin to such extent that it would be a serious problem.

It was stated by persons who professed to know, that, in the point of generation of hydro-electric power, one site is as good as the other. According to T. B. Doud, engineer for the Imperial Valley Irrigation company, the sale of electric energy would in 25 years repay all costs of the dam and equipment installed for generation of electricity.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, has voiced publicly his approval of Black canyon, urging a dam 540 feet high, capable of developing 650,000 primary horsepower, creating a storage sufficient to assure adequate water supply for irrigation and affording ample flood protection. In a discussion with the senate committee in Washington last month, he said the Black canyon dam would cost $42,000,000; that an electric generating plant would cost $20,000,000, and that transmission lines to Los Angeles and Southern California generally would require an additional expenditure of $27,000,000, the entire project calling for an expenditure of from $102,000,000 to $115,000,000.

Congress Considers $125,000,000. The Swing-Johnson bill provides for the construction of a dam "at or near Colorado canyon," and I understand present consideration by congress is for an appropriation of $125,000,000 for the project.

Speaking at a banquet given the visitors at Las Vegas, Tuesday night, Doud stressed the point that disassociation of the all-American canal with the dam project should not be countenanced, and he sounded a warning by declaring that the longer the project is permitted to drift without action, the greater would become the acreage in Mexico that would have to be supplied with irrigation waters from the Colorado river. He said the obligation is moral, rather than legal. He asserted that at least 30,000 acres annually are being added to the Mexican lands watered from this source. Recounting past history, he made the interesting statement that, in bringing water into the Imperial valley from the Colorado originally, an old river channel was followed because it offered the cheapest plan for getting the water to the Imperial valley lands. The old river, the Alamo, meandered into Mexico.

Would Remove Flood Danger. Touching on benefits to Imperial valley by building of the dam, the engineer said it would forever remove the menace of floods and that it would relieve the district of an expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 a year in taking care of silt deposited in the ditches and on lands irrigated. Recounting that approximately 60,000 persons now live in the valley and that approximately 400,000 acres of land are under irrigation, he said that possibly double the acreage could be put under cultivation in the Imperial and Coachella valleys. Imperial valley land is now worth around $200-an acre, he said, with crop production averaging annually about $65,000,000.

Outside of the Imperial and Coachella valleys, the benefit of the dam to Southern California will come in the way of lower cost electrical energy and importation of water from the river for domestic purposes.

Los Angeles already has voted $2,000,000 for preliminary work for developing water at the river. This work now is in progress. The city will not divert the water at the dam, but will take it from the stream at a point between Blythe and Needles. I understand that Los Angeles now is prepared to let a contract for construction of a canal leading from the river into a large body of gravel that will desilt and purify the water. If the project is finally put through, it will be necessary to have two booster stations to get the water over the divide at Beaumont, the two lifts raising the water over an elevation of about 1700 feet.

Amount of Slight Consequence. Los Angeles contemplates appropriation of 1500 second feet, an amount that is infinitesimal, as compared with the volume that will be stored by erection of the dam.

In my opinion, Southern California cities that fail to insist on participation in the project of bringing water from the Colorado, will rue the day their apathy permitted the opportunity to slip by. It should be borne in mind, however, that Southern California can go to the river for water for domestic consumption. Use of that water would release for irrigation purposes water that now is used for domestic purposes. It is possible, however, that Colorado water may be used to some extent for irrigation purposes unless there should be protest from other districts with rights on the river. Such protests are not believed likely, unless there should be a shortage in the river. It may be commented that during the visit of the Southern California group to the river, the stream was flowing 1200 second feet, the lowest point it has reached in 16 years, according to old timers at Las Vegas.

In the group of men and women who made the trip to the Colorado were many prominent city and county officials. Assemblyman A. B. Brock, of Redlands; Mayor Wheaton, of the same city, and Lyman King, editor and publisher of the Redlands Facts, a former state senator and now a candidate for lieutenant governor, were in the party. Mayor Newcomb, of San Bernardino, also was on the trip.

Headquarters at Las Vegas. Las Vegas was headquarters for the group, the visit to Boulder being made on Monday and the tour to Black canyon on the following day. J. W. Scott, of El Centro, formerly land registrar for the Imperial valley, had charge of the excursion party. C. E. Pemberton, executive secretary of the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce, co-operated in every way possible in making the trip one of pleasure, he assuming direction of the delegates for the side trips made during the stay at the county seat of Clark county. The chamber there was host at a banquet given Tuesday night.

Las Vegas is about 235 miles from Santa Ana and can be reached in an automobile easily in 10 to 11 hours. The roads are good for desert roads. The state highway commission is doing a great deal of work. A cutoff at Daggett, through Yermo and Baker, is 90 miles shorter than the route by way of Searchlight, and the Southern California group took the cutoff.

A similar trip will be organized early in March and Santa Ana and Orange county residents will find the four-day trip one of interest and profit.

Examinations By Doctor Offered
Grove Students

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Looking into the future life of the student, Mr. Sprinkle, the science teacher, has arranged for each student to have a physical examination, if he so desires.

About 50 boys have asked for examinations and will be examined by Dr. C. C. Violet of Garden Grove. Dr. Stanton of the Orange county hospital, will take care of the 18 girls who have signed up.

There is to be no fee for the examinations and they may be of great benefit to the students, according to Mr. Sprinkle. The student is judged as to his weight, height and age. A separate record is kept of each student examined. If Mr. Sprinkle's plans are carried out the students examined this year will be examined again next year in order to prove that corrections may be made, if the student so desires.

Miles of the drive to Boulder alone is worth the effort and expense of the trip. The road from Las Vegas follows the Arrowhead trail for 11 miles and then cuts across on a private road built and maintained by the West End Chemical company. The road runs to the company's borax plant, one-half mile beyond the point where the road to the dam branches. The beautiful blending of colors on the black hills and mountains, with bright hues ever changing as sunlight and shadows shift positions on the hills, offers a vision of beauty that probably cannot be duplicated anywhere, not excepting even the painted desert. The road bed is hard, but the road winds in and out around points that makes speed impossible. It requires about three hours to negotiate the 48 miles between Las Vegas and the dam site. The road to Black canyon is good, but the scenery is not as grand and interesting as on the other route.

Can the Baby Roll With Safety on your Rugs?

Youngsters will toddle and tumble and roll. It's a happy, human trait—but have you made provision for it in your home, so that the health of your little ones can be properly safeguarded?

A good precaution is to be sure that the washable rugs in the nursery, in the bed rooms and elsewhere in the home are always properly clean.

And it is no trouble to keep them that way if you will just send them to us once in a while for laundering.

Instead of trying to struggle with them yourself—it is fatiguing work for even the most robust of women—simply make a roll of them and give them to our driver when he calls for your family bundle.

Our laundering method is good for rugs. We use oceans of crystal-clear water on them; souse them in creamy suds; rinse them again and again, and then dry them in a sweet, warm breeze. You will be delighted with their restored newness.

Telephone and we will send our driver.

A Berkey & Gay
Suite with a French Accent

Give a Frenchman a yard of silk, a block of marble or a log of wood, and if the old Gallic genius be in his blood, he will create something of rare and gracious beauty.

This was still true a long, long while ago—true even in the war-like times of Henry IV, "great-est of Bourbon Kings," when craftsmen of France designed the type of furniture so charmingly represented in the "Gascony" Suite, by Berkey & Gay.

This is the type of French furniture paralleling the English Carolean style, although in design and treatment typically continental. The spiral spool turnings on the posts, the oval panels on the doors of the sideboard, the peculiar, wide fluted, heavy under-mouldings, and distinctive carving on the legs, are all thoroughly in keeping with these olden French motifs.

As may be expected of the popular woods of these times, walnut is the principal wood used by the Berkey & Gay craftsmen in perpetuating this style. The table top, as well as the tops and sides of the cabinet pieces, are of straight-grained walnut, while the doors of the china cabinet and sideboard are of skillfully matched butt walnut. The drawers of the pieces are of richly textured burl oak, a very rare wood, and appropriately used for this type of suite.

The characteristic under-mouldings, as well as the legs and stretchers, are fashioned of selected American gumwood, since for these parts strength and adaptability to carving are more important than elaborate grain figuring.

Beauty of woods and sturdy construction have been combined in these pieces with unusual features of convenience for usefulness in the home.

The open grain wax finish also tends to carry on the olden spirit of the design. This tends to give that aged and mellow color tone to the various woods.

"They haven't missed a single day at school!"

"They're well all the time. The doctor says they are the healthiest children he knows. He told me constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the waste matter spread through the little bodies, and lower their resistance to disease. So I'm very careful to guard against constipation. I simply give them a little Nujol every night."

"Nujol isn't a laxative at all, you know, but it keeps them just as regular as clockwork. They like it, and the doctor says it's just the thing for them."

Nujol Helps Nature in Nature's Own Way

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, so gentle, so natural in its action.

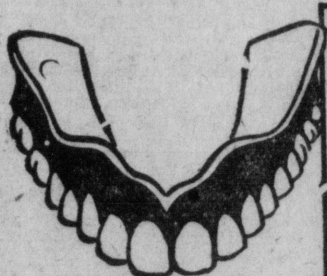

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time. Ask your druggist for Nujol today and let your children enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when their elimination is normal and regular.

CAVEMEN BLANK TRUCKERS, CINCH SERIES

Even with the more advanced coaching systems that are being established in the big colleges, the college baseball player does not seem to be any better equipped for a quick trip to the major leagues than he was years ago.

With such a demand for good young players, managers are inclined to have more patience with a college player and give him a better chance than he would have done in the days when ball players were cheap and when college boys were known as rah-rah.

Yet under auspicious conditions, very few of the players who have the advantage of four years' instruction and coaching from a former major league player are able to hold down a big league job without going through the mill in the bushes.

The outstanding college players last year were the two Holy Cross stars, Owen Carroll and Gautreau; Eddie Farrell, the Pennsylvania shortstop and Charley Caldwell, the Princeton football and baseball star.

Carroll was ranked as the greatest college pitcher ever developed. He lost only two games in the four years that he pitched for Holy Cross and many major league scouts said if there ever was a good pitcher that was ready for fast company, it was Carroll.

But he failed to make good with the Detroit Tigers, a big scoring club that should be comparatively easy to pitch for. Carroll said it was just the difference between the amateur game and the professional game and that he had been bothered by the signal system. He has a chance to make good eventually, however, unless he becomes discouraged.

Gautreau, second baseman, was rated next to Carroll as the big star at Holy Cross. He went to the Philadelphia Athletics when he graduated, but he had very little chance because Connie Mack could not afford to experiment in a hot pennant race with a minor leaguer on first base and a college player on second.

Walters was asked on him and the Boston Braves claimed him. He has been used regularly and Dave Bancroft thinks he will develop into a major league star.

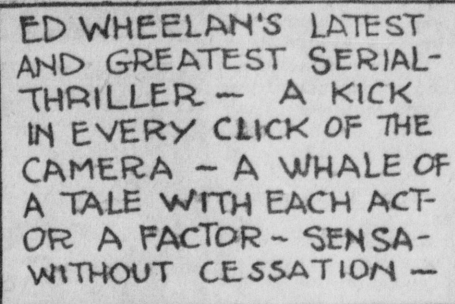

Eddie Farrell had all the major league scouts looking over him for two years when he was playing with the Pennsylvania university nine and the new York Giants landed him. He reported to the club just when it was almost wrecked by injuries and he was ordered to play shortstop his first day with the club, and he has been used more or less as a regular ever since. He is a capable fielder, but he can't hit up to McGraw's demands.

Caldwell also was recommended by several major league coaches

UPSETS TANGLE STANDING IN EXCITING HI-Y BASKETBALL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP HUNT

Upsets and form reversals had so tangled the standing of the Santa Ana Hi-Y Basketball league today that even the most expert handicapper was having his troubles selecting winners in this high-powered pennant race. Some of the leading contenders took their bumps in Saturday's games at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and now almost any quintette in the loop has a chance to come through with a stretch drive and annex the titular honors.

In the third round of the play-offs Saturday, the Richmond Ave. M. E. Bears mauled the First Presbyterian Blue Streaks, who were running wild at the front of the league, by a score of 20 to 12 score on the "Y" gymnasium floor.

Both the United Presbyterian Hill Climbers and the Tustin high school Huskies mopped their records clean by scoring wins during the week-end.

The games were devoid of high point scorers this week due to the apparently even matches. No player in the Hi-Y league has been able to approach the high scoring mark of 22 points set by Paris Edgar last week.

HISTORY MAKING HAYMAKERS; "CHEESE CHAMP" WINS TITLE

JUST A POOR PALOOKA BUT A LUCKY WALLOP WON HIM THE CROWN

By JOE WILLIAMS
You hear little of George Chip or Al McCoy when the Impromptu Debating societies discuss great fighters of the past.

Yet both Chip and McCoy, at different times, were middle weight champions of the world. Chip was not a bad fighter; he had a punishing left hand, an effective defense and "you couldn't hurt him." He was good enough to beat fellows like Frank Klaus, Buck Crouse and Jack Dillon.

McCoy, on the other hand, was a horrible tomato—one of those misguided birds who hang around gymnasiums all the time and who THINK they can fight. McCoy was called the world's worst middleweight, and he had no trouble successfully defending the title.

Chip, McCoy Matched
On April 7, 1914, Chip and McCoy were matched to battle ten rounds at Brooklyn. And there, by hangs a tale, a tale which has not, to my recollection, been told before. Chip was not originally matched with McCoy. He went in as a substitute for his younger brother, Joe.

It was this way: Jimmy Dime managed the Chips. Joe had previously fought McCoy and had punched him stupid. George, then the champion, had never shown in the New York district. Jimmy wanted to get him started there, figuring he would fight himself into some important dough. So he wired the Brooklyn promoter as follows:

"Joe is sick. Can let you have George, the champion, at same terms." Naturally the promoter was agreeable. So was McCoy, who had little to say about it anyway, being considered lucky to have a place on the card.

Clown Whips Champion
What followed was a terrible shock to Mr. Dime and an even more terrible shock to Mr. Chip. McCoy the clown, the tramp, the impossible, knocked out Chip, the champion—beat since Stanley Ketchel's day—in LESS THAN ONE ROUND!

Call it what you will, a miracle, a whim of fate, or sheer carelessness on the part of an arrogant champion, but the result brought a legitimate championship to a battler whose skill hardly qualified him for preliminary fighting. There is not much to tell of the fight itself. The knockout came after one minute and 40 seconds. Chip immediately assumed the aggressive and began scoring with light punches to the head. McCoy made awkward attempts to block and at intervals ventured a swinging punch that missed its objective by many inches.

Beats Chip to Punch
Wrestling loose from a clinch, Chip cut loose with his first real blow of the round, a left to the

GRIZZLIES, COLUMBUS'S NAB LEAD IN RACE FOR PIONEER BASKETBALL LEAGUE PENNANT

Two teams in the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Pioneer Basketball league Division A, today stood out as chief contenders for pennant honors as the result of second round games played at the "Y" gymnasium Saturday. Scoring overwhelming victories, the Tustin Grizzlies and the First Presbyterian Columbus's maintained their position at the top of the circuit.

The Grizzlies defeated the United Brethren Carsons by an 18 to 5 score and the Columbus five ran over the United Presbyterian Apaches by a 20 to 3 count.

In another match, the First Congregational Pathfinders defeated the First Baptist Judsons but the score of 9 to 4 was not impressive.

By raining in a high total of 20 points, Curtis Youel took an undisputed high score lead, even besting the older boys of the Hi-Y class. Youel plays with the Columbus team. He was the sole scorer Saturday for his aggregation.

With the exception of the strong Nazarene Eagles, the cage squads that are playing in the Pioneer league, Division B, spun tails and recovered equal standing in Saturday's tilts. The Eagles whitewashed the First Baptist Ashmores to the extent of a 15 to 0 score.

HELEN 'OPENS UP' IN SINGLES TOURNAY
CANNES, France, Feb. 8.—Miss Helen Willis, the American tennis champion, electrified the grandstands here today by opening up with a sensational brand of tennis with which she defeated Miss Ethel Friscer in two love sets in the opening play of the tournament here.

Miss Willis displayed the sort of game which critics thought she should have introduced when she and her partner were defeated by Suzanne Lenglen and her partner in the mixed doubles.

The American girl's drives and back hand strokes were of amazing strength and drew comment from all the critics and the players who watched the match.

Local Gymnasts Take Second In Showing unexpected skill against far more experienced athletes, the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. four-man team finished second in the first annual gymnastic meet held at Riverside Saturday in connection with the senior readers' conference of the Southern California "Y."

Riverside totaled 31 points to win first place. Santa Ana made 13 1-2 San Bernardino, 5 1-2 and Los Angeles, 5. All these cities have had Y. M. C. A. gymnasiums longer than Santa Ana.

Robert Bunch, Alfred Monton, Don Anderson and Fred Durbin represented the local "Y."

Pitcher Is Star of 6 to 0 Victory Over Van Dien-Young Company Outfit

Willie Rangel, star Laguna Beach pitcher, humbled his rival, Dennis White in the third and deciding game of a three game series at Costa Mesa yesterday afternoon, when the Cavemen defeated the Van Dien Young company team of Santa Ana, 6 to 0. Timely hitting by the Laguna team and costly errors by the men back of White were responsible for the one-sided score.

Although he allowed six hits, Rangel was in real danger in only one inning, when the Trunkers hit him safely three times. He got out of the hole by fanning three men, two of them with two men on base and the third when the bags were loaded.

Rangel fanned 11 men and White three. White passed three and Rangel one. Rangel was a bit wild at times, two wild pitches and two hit batsmen being scored against him. After two were out in the first, Babcock walked and went to second and third on successive wild pitches before Rangel regained control. Rangel batted .667 for the three-game series, making 6 hits in nine times at bat. White passed him four times in the three games and he fanned twice and grounded out once.

Laguna Beach made 14 runs, 26 hits and 8 errors in the three games, while Van Dien-Young made 6 runs, 13 hits and 11 errors.

Sunday's game was marked by several sensational plays. After Hill was safe on Stark's fumble in the fifth the signal was given for the hit and run. Wilfong grabbed La Plante's hot liner out of the air and doubled Hill at first. Smith made a sensational catch to rob La Plante of a hit in the tenth. LaPlante saved an error for Johnson and a possible score by a sweet stop of a badly thrown ball.

Laguna Beach started to score in the second. With one away, Bell singled. Daley popped to Stark. White deliberately passed Rangel. Bell scored on Roy Griggs' single, Rangel going to third and Griggs to second. Chris Valente singled, scoring Rangel and Griggs.

Two runs were added in the sixth. Wilfong threw out Johnson. Jamison doubled to center. Jamison scored on Daley's single. Daley going to second on the throw-in. Daley scored on Rangel's single.

The last tally came in the eighth. Bell singled and went to second on a passed ball. Shirley fielded Daley's grounder and cut off Bell at third. Daley stole second. White walked Rangel. Daley scored when Babcock threw over Comorzi's head to prevent him from stealing third.

The box score:

Beanpickers Blank Westminster, 2-0

Irvine took its second straight game in the Orange County Major Winter league when it defeated the Westminster Beet-toppers, 2 to 0, at the cross-roads park yesterday afternoon.

The scheduled contest between Brea and the Shields Paint company of Santa Ana was postponed because of the moist condition of the Brea diamond.

Poets And Branch Lead Conference

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—Whittier and the University of California, Southern Branch, maintained their lead in the Southern California conference by securing easy victories in their Saturday night games.

Whittier beat Pomona, 27 to 17, the Grizzlies beat Caltech, 27 to 21, and Occidental nosed out Redlands, 24 to 18.

BOWLING with the CHAMPION

TEN DON'TS
1. Don't try to learn the bowling game in one trial. It can't be done.
2. Don't use chalk on the hands. It cracks the fingers and makes them sore.
3. Don't carry or take ball off rack with right hand. Use the left. Save right for actual work.
4. Don't deliberate too long after taking aim. It may throw you off.
5. Don't let errors bother you.

6. Don't try to murder the pins. A half-speed ball gives them a better chance to work as the ball cuts through.
7. Don't try for difficult splits unless you are pretty certain you can make them. One pin is better than none.
8. Don't overdo. When you feel tired call it a day.
9. Don't lose your temper. It only hurts your game.
10. Lastly, don't get discouraged. Keep practicing, for practice makes perfect.

Everyone makes 'em. Set about to eliminate them.

Stanford Defeats Troy Third Time

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—The University of Southern California's basketball team resigned itself to its fate of finishing near the bottom of the Pacific Coast conference today.

The Trojans suffered their third defeat of the season at the hands of Stanford Saturday night. The score was 20 to 22.

Only one chance for the Trojans to enjoy a conference victory remains. They will meet the University of California here Friday night.

A THREE DAYS'
COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

OPPOSITION TO CHURCH SCHOOL STUDY VOICED

Widespread opposition to legislation, which would allow pupils to be excused from school for certain periods during school hours, is revealed in a report, prepared by a special committee of school executives, and submitted to the California Council of Education, a copy of which has been received at the county superintendent's office.
In face of this opposition, coupled with the defeat of former attempts to introduce religious training in the schools, the committee recommends that a strong, comprehensive course in morals and manners be prepared for use in the public schools and that a committee of seven members be appointed to undertake one or two years' study as needed to formulate such a course.
Takes Neutral Stand on the question of excusing school children during regular school hours for the purpose of receiving outside religious instruction, the committee recommends that a further study be made of this problem.
In presenting its recommendations, the committee quoted from letters, written by California people, giving their position on the week-day church school in school time.
Following are extracts from letters:

"Personally, I would like to see tried out the Gary, Ind., plan. I believe that it would work and would go far to meeting the private school question. I would be pleased to have your committee go into this phase of the matter fully, and also make a study of moral and ethical principles, which should be presented to the children during the public school hours. Either one would be better than the present situation, and if an entire co-operation of the various churches could be had, the first, in my judgment, would be preferable."

Trial Is Unfavorable
That the church organizations are not equipped to take over this work is asserted by another writer, who says:
"We have tried out here, in our community, to a limited extent, the idea of having children excused from school to attend religious services. Our experience has been that the church organizations, so far, have not the facilities of the teaching organization to take care of this work adequately. I am convinced that we shall go further in the long run by bringing into the schools a course of study on morals and ethical principles, which has a religious background but no religious dogma."

Decided opposition to the plan is registered by this citizen, who writes:
"I do not believe that there is any prospect of securing the passage of such a law as you suggest, which would excuse school children, during school days, to attend church or Sunday school for religious instruction and to be allowed credit by the schools for such work. At least, I hope there is no prospect of this being done. I do, however, heartily approve of your plan to further the study of moral and ethical principles in the schools."

Duty of Parents
An opinion that it is the duty of parents to teach their children morals and ethics, is voiced by another Californian, who says:
"I do not favor legislation that will allow pupils to be excused from school for religious education. In my opinion, religious training and, to a considerable extent, manners, morals and ethics are subjects best taught by parents and any attempt to relieve parents of further responsibility for the training of the children would not be to their advantage."

Farm Center To Convene Tuesday

EL MODENA, Feb. 8.—The regular monthly meeting of the El Modena farm center is to be held Tuesday night instead of tonight, it was announced today by J. M. Brubaker, president.
The postponement was made owing to the fact that a four-reel motion picture, depicting California farming activities, could not be obtained except on Tuesday night.
The film is said to be highly interesting to agriculturists and a large attendance is anticipated. The meeting is to close with community singing. It is called for 7:30 o'clock at the El Modena school.

Commerce Group Gets Invitation

FULLERTON, Feb. 8.—L. O. Culp, vice principal of the Fullerton union high school, has extended an invitation to the Buena Park Chamber of Commerce to hold its next meeting at the high school. Wives of the members will also be welcome.

Entertainment at this gathering will be furnished by high school talent. It is planned to take the visitors on a tour of the campus in order to acquaint them with the facilities of the institution.

Male Flappers to Wear Nude Shoes

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Male flappers will go in for colored shoes this spring, with a nude shade taking first honors, shoe dealers here announced.

The nude shade has been brought out in California and Florida and by spring will have invaded the rest of the country, the dealers claim. Outing shoes trimmed in red and green also will be in vogue, according to the forecast. Other colors will be introduced as the weather warms up.

"KERNELS" BY THE COLONEL

The sheriff's office was today investigating sensational rumors to the effect that votes were being bought in the coming Bankers' election, scheduled for February 15.

J. McGoofus McWhistle, umpire, said today that as far as he knew there was no foundation for the rumors and that he considered them an insult to his fair name, insofar as he was personally conducting the election.

The fact that Tony La Eat-house, candidate, was yesterday arrested for "cutting in" on Pete Pennyantis, another candidate, will have no effect on his standing in the race, J. McWhistle announced this morning after taking the matter under consideration and after talking with both candidates.

Non-support charges are to be filed against at least two members of the Bankers' club, according to a story printed yesterday in the Evening Disappointment, political organ. It is alleged that the two members left the bank standing all alone for almost 40 minutes one day last week, while they attended a trial in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

That the jury service among the members is taking them away from their duties at Fourth and Main, is another charge which will be aired, it is said. J. McGoofus McWhistle said today that he earnestly hoped that the members would remember the dates of the election and would vote early and often.

Today's booty prize should go to the candidate who had a number of sample ballots printed and distributed them around with the cross marked opposite an opponent's name.

LONG BEACH.—Plans for a new water distributing system to serve North Long Beach already have been prepared, it was announced by Clark H. Shaw, water department superintendent, when asked by the council to take action promptly for the betterment of service in the northern part of the city. If the financial problem can be solved now, this is the time for construction of a distributing system in North Long Beach, declared Superintendent Shaw. If the city is not prepared to undertake the work it is possible to do it by the formation of a utility district, commented Mr. Shaw.

PASADENA.—The board of city directors has announced the appointment of 11 prominent men and women of Pasadena to serve on the investigating and advisory committee to handle the expenditure of the $100,000 bond issue voted by the people for the relief of the victims of the New Year's day grandstand accident here. The committees will begin their investigations immediately and the money will be distributed as soon as the bonds are sold, probably within three weeks.

SAN DIEGO.—Receiving and approving the report of Engineer J. B. Lippincott on the plans and specifications for the new $1,000,000 pipe line from San Diego to the El Capitan dam site, the council yesterday reached the conclusion that the city will be able to call for bids for the construction of this big water development improvement by February 15. It was decided to call for market.

While speaking of paving and wondering when the work on East First street is going to start, if ever, what about North Broadway? At present, in spots, it resembles a detour.

LONG EARS NEEDED
"The dramatic classes at the high school are at work on four one-act plays. The girls are rehearsing 'My Aunt From New York,' 'Minnikin and Marnikin,' and 'Nevertheless.' The boys are working on 'Two Blind Men' and 'A Donkey.' All the parts in this play have been assigned except that of the donkey, for which it seems difficult to find an efficient actor."—Riverside Press.

Last week, the city council waived its mighty hand and every gasoline station in town was supposed to take its gas and oil signs from the curbs, but apparently, many of the service station owners did not see the hand as it swept past their place of business.

The trouble seems to be that the city council did not instruct the police to enforce the motion which was passed, and if it expects the signs to disappear without specific orders, it is all wet.

bids for both 32 and 36-inch pipe. Although Lippincott suggested that it would not be wise, from an engineering standpoint, to construct the line any further than Lakeside at this time, as it may be years before El Capitan is completed, the council took the opposite view. City Attorney Higgins insisted that the line should extend all the way to El Capitan, to protect the city's interest and be ready for use when it is needed. To this the council agreed.

FONTANA.—Marking another important step forward in the business development of Fontana, announcement is made of the completion of plans of the First National bank, of Fontana, to be owned by Los Angeles and Fontana capital, with control vested at Fontana. The bank will be capitalized for $50,000 with a surplus of $10,000. Construction on the new bank building was started on the northwest corner of Magnolia and Perris avenues, Fontana, this week, and will be rushed to an early completion. The building, of Spanish type of architecture, is in keeping with the general community building plans at Fontana and will be 60 by 120 feet.

PASADENA.—After a strenuous special session marked by bitter arguments and an exchange of complimentary personalities, members of the board of city directors yesterday were stripped of their extra powers granted after the last election. By a vote of 4 to 3, the board decided that the members' titles as heads of various municipal departments be relinquished and that the broad power formerly bestowed with the city manager be returned to R. V. Olson, present holder of the office.

PEACE MOVE IS BEING PROBED BY MINISTERS

Echoes of the district P.-T. A. meeting, held last month in Garden Grove, when the "Fellowship of Youth for Peace" movement was denounced as a cloak for Bolshevik propaganda, were heard today when it became known that the Santa Ana Ministerial association, having taken cognizance of the matter, has directed inquiries to the department of state and the department of justice, as well as to noted churchmen and educators, for the purpose of ascertaining the nature of the movement.

According to a Los Angeles evening newspaper, giving a detailed account of the Garden Grove meeting, the peace movement was classified as radical propaganda by an official of the Los Angeles P.-T. A. Because of the indirect criticism, which has been leveled at the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A., which organizations, it is claimed, have added the movement. Secretary Ralph C. Smalley requested the officers of the American branch of the "Fellowship of Youth for Peace" movement, with headquarters at 104 East Ninth street, New York City, to furnish him with a statement of purpose, as well as the text of the application for membership.

Following is the statement of purpose, as printed on the application blank:
"To our generation comes the challenge to abolish war. In rising to meet this challenge young men and women of the world over are finding a common ground. We realize that to outlaw war there must be world federation of youth."

"The Fellowship of Youth for Peace is a part of the world-wide movement of the youth of all classes, nations and races who recognize the unity of the human family and wish to live in this spirit of friendship. It will be our aim to let no interest of self, family, creed, class, nation or race separate us from our fellow men. We are determined to abolish the treason to humanity involved in war."

"The American movement is a dynamic factor in this world federation. We youth must courageously face the problems of race, economics, education, our moral responsibilities and all human relationships and approach their study in a new spirit. Standing together, the rising generation can build a new world, by which suspicion, hatred and war will be replaced by mutual trust, goodwill and fellowship."

relationships and approach their study in a new spirit. Standing together, the rising generation can build a new world, by which suspicion, hatred and war will be replaced by mutual trust, goodwill and fellowship."

The text of the application blank, addressed to the secretary of the movement, reads as follows:
"It is my purpose to strive for the removal of the causes of war, economic and racial, as well as political, and to work for methods based upon international justice and goodwill in place of the method of war. Frankness, sincerity, trust, respect for personality will be the basis of my relationship with all men. Working with other youth throughout the world, I am determined to devote every effort toward the abolition of war in my generation. In so doing, I seek the fellowship of the youth of the world."

The TANGLE

The whole horrible catastrophe was over before any of those about could breathe. Where just before had been a lovely woman, dressed in gorgeous clothes, her throat encircled with a million dollars worth of pearls, talking and laughing with a man in the prime and vigor of his life, there was only a little heap of seething, fiery, flaming steel.

The reporter was a member of the marines during the late war but not even the terrible sights of the battlefield and the hospitals struck such horror to his soul as did this spectacle. Only one thing made one feel that possibly the accident was not quite as bad as it seemed.

An old steel man who was standing near has given it as his opinion that neither Miss Perler nor Mr. Prescott knew what had struck them as they were unconscious before the flaming mass really enveloped them.

At this point in the description to the reporter, the man, who had seen many accidents in the mill, collapsed and was able to say no more. Both Mr. Condon, the assistant manager of the works, and Miss Sally Atherton, Mr. Prescott's secretary, were seriously burned as they started toward the hapless victims, but were held back by saner hands.

About five others were seriously burned by splashing, red hot steel while many had their clothing almost burned off from the heat but miraculously suffered only skin wounds.

It was a moment before the spectators further back went to the rescue of these others as the horror of seeing the two principle victims disappear in the flaming torrent seemed to stop every heart beat. But, in a few seconds—that a spectator says seemed hours—some called the police, the fire department, nurses and doctors attached to the plant and soon the adjacent offices as well as the hospital in connection with the mill, were filled with weeping, crazy, nerve-torn men and women.

Coming right after the gaiety and joyousness of the Orthopedic Hospital Bazaar, this catastrophe has turned all Pittsburgh into mourning.

It was Mr. Karl Whitney's sad duty to break the news to Mrs. Prescott and her mother, Mrs. Hamilton, both of whom are prostrated with horror and grief. In fact, fears are expressed for Mrs. Prescott's sanity.

Director Alan Crossland selected Estelle Taylor, Jack Dempsey's wife, to portray the role of Lucrezia Borgia in John Barrymore's "Don Juan" because, as he declared, "she is the perfect type." After decreeing Estelle "the perfect type," the director had the actress don a blond wig to conceal her black tresses and paste a heavy and dark make-up over

Will Hays is having a cleansing effect on motion pictures. When Louis B. Mayer, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, recently discovered a number of paper weights, fashioned from nude bathing beauty statues in various offices about the film plant, he had them gathered in and destroyed. Then he issued an order to capture the culprit responsible for the dastardly deed.

Woman of mystery is Jetta Goudal, French film frappe, who painted make-believe emotion on the De Mille cinema canvases. She is a continental musical comedy with the comedy gone forever. No one knows her history here save the whisperings that followed in her wake.

The story that is, told concerns a man in her native land who broke her heart ... sorrow caused self-banishment and drove her into Hollywood's picture potpourri. (Penalty ad fini) Red blotches of anger stain her olive-tinted face when one refers to this man left behind or any man who may loom on the road ahead. That is why you never see Jetta Goudal in the Montmartre or on the Boulevard or anywhere else in the company of a male escort. She has never had a date since coming here. She is Hollywood's most mysterious recluse.

TELEPHONE FACTS
The city of Milwaukee now has approximately one telephone for every five people.

One-twelfth of all the telephones in the world are in New York City.

It is estimated that there are about 900,000,000 pounds of copper in the Bell System telephone plant at the present time.

The first simultaneous radio broadcasting of two stations connected by telephone lines occurred on January 4, 1923.

Since the beginning of 1920 the number of telephones in the city of New Orleans has increased over 65 per cent, jumping from a total of 32,888 stations to over 55,000.

In 1885 the total telephone wire mileage underground in New York City was about the same as would be contained in a quarter-mile length of modern 1200-pair cable.

The world's largest telephone building, now approaching completion in New York City, contains enough steel to fill 1,000 railroad freight cars in a train nine miles long.

Today is feast day of St. John of Matha, who gave his life to the redemption of Moorish captives.

Today is anniversary of Philadelphia's first gas lighting in 1836.

Today is birthday anniversary of Jules Verne and John Ruskin.

TABLE LINENS are so dear to the heart of every home keeper that it is worth while to spend considerable energy in their maintenance.

Even the little every-day breakfast and tea napkins which we face so often deserve a touch of distinction. This takes a minimum of time and gives a maximum of decoration when bright colors and long stitches are used to make the patterns here given. Blanket stitch, or heavy quality bias type, add color to the edge with little effort.

Well worth the effort of making this dress accessory, with its ultra-modern design and possibilities of gay coloring. There may be a square of taffeta, velvet or satin large enough in your scrap box, or by buying a bit especially to make it, consider cloth of gold or silver.

Seven different colors are suggested; they may be your choice of many.

In differently to show a balance of colors rather than to dictate any one color scheme.

Crimoline 8x9 or 9x10 is the foundation. The lining of contrasting color is finished with pockets both sides, which are also lined. A single layer of sheet wadding may be put under the outside covering, and the edge finished all around with a narrow binding braid.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, Spanish omelet, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Noodle soup, asparagus salad, rye bread, apple pancakes, milk, tea.

Dinner—Boiled mutton, curried rice, creamed turnips, head lettuce with Russian dressing, graham bread, plain cake, canned pears, milk, coffee.

Mutton is so often boiled because by cooking it in water the strong flavor is greatly lessened. An onion, peeled but unliced, and 2 teaspoons lemon juice added to the water improves the flavor of the meat.

These apple pancakes are rather out of the ordinary but very good for a cold weather dessert.

Apple Pancakes
Two and one-half cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 2 eggs, 1-2 cups milk, 1 cup grated tart apple.

Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar and soda. Stir in milk and melted butter. Beat until smooth and add eggs well beaten and grated apple. Mix thoroughly and bake large cakes on a lightly greased griddle.

A soap-stone aluminum griddle needs no greasing. The cakes should be the size of a layer cake. Spread each cake generously with butter and sprinkle with maple sugar, stacking cakes as they are baked. Cut "pie fashion" and serve very hot.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NO. 1—THE LAND OF THE BLUE CHERRY

"He just sits with a pen in his hand and writes and writes and writes all the time."

The Fairy Queen telephoned for the twins to go to her palace at once as she had a very important errand for them to do.

So they lost no time in hunting up her secret dwelling place, which was south of the Dingle Dell, north of the Windy Wold, west of the Glimmering Glade and east of the setting sun.

"How do you do, my dears!" said the Fairy Queen when they arrived. "I'm very happy to see you."

"We're pretty well, thank you," said Nick. "Except that I've got a loose tooth and can't eat apples."

"And I have a scratch on my finger," said Nancy. "Caesar and I were playing and he scratched me."

"Just like a cat!" said the Fairy Queen. "They have queer notions of fun. But there! We're losing time and poor Twinkle Pen is suffering."

"Twinkle Pen!" cried the twins together.

"Yes," nodded her Royal Highness. "Poor old Twinkle Pen! He is my chief clerk and secretary. You know, who attends to all my business and writes my notes for me. The poor dear fairyman went to take a drink of water last night, and in the dark he picked up his inkwell by mistake and drank all the ink."

"That was terrible!" said Nancy. "Did he die?"

"No," said the Fairy Queen. "Fairy men don't die. But he turned black all over at once, then green, then purple, then blue. He's blue now, and his hair is orange. Beside that he is in a most peculiar condition. He can't stop writing. He just sits with a pen in his hand and writes and writes and writes all the time. He's filled up all the paper in the palace and he's beginning on the walls. The ink flows right out through the ends of his fingers. It's terrible indeed."

"Can't he stop?" asked Nick.

HOW LONG IS A COAT?
Turning a moment from the subject of style to that of correct fit and measurement, the subjoined letter doubtless echoes a question which lurks in the minds of many men: "I have a serious problem in dress to overcome. Every one is not tall and, being of medium size, I seem to have difficulty in getting sack coats of the right length for my height. Do you believe that if a sack coat is cut short it makes the wearer look taller? The salesmen in clothing shops claim that to shorten a coat spoils its style. However, to me it seems that a coat which comes down too far over the hips makes me appear undersized. Will you kindly bring your knowledge to bear upon this problem. I am sure that there are many other men who are faced with the same difficulty and would thank you to help them solve it. My contention is that the length of a coat is never a question of set style, but must depend upon a man's height."

Our esteemed inquirer is right and he is wrong. He is right in arguing that the length of a coat should be determined not by fashion, but only by becomingness to the individual figure. He is wrong in his assumption that a sack coat may be shortened at the bottom, as sleeve or trousers are. So to shorten it would destroy the lines of the whole garment, throwing the pockets out of place. It must be borne in mind that every sack coat is drafted upon the designing board to fit a man of a certain height. Five feet, eight inches is the average measurement of the body and 30 inches is the average length of the coat.

However, there are many variations of models for figures which are irregular. Thus, there are suits expressly designed for shorts, long, stouts, short stouts and long stouts. Hence, it is unnecessary, even if it were feasible, to shorten a sack coat to fit the man below normal height. He may obtain his size in a short or short stout without alterations.

Our correspondent and all men who are similarly circumstanced should not try to have a regular sack coat cut down. They should obtain the appropriate model in one of its many variations of proportions as stated. These will be found to be correctly cut in every detail, so that the short figure looks, approximately, the same as the longer one, height considered. If you will glance at the double-breasted sack suit portrayed in the accompanying sketch, you will observe that, regardless of what the wearer's height might be, his coat looks right in length.

ROOSEVELTS ARE ON JOURNEY HOME

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Bringing with them rare trophies, including the hide of an "armor-plated" rhinoceros, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, are on the seas, homeward bound from their 10 months' hunt in central Asia, according to a cablegram received here by James Simpson, millionaire department store man, who financed the expedition.

The Roosevelts are on their way from Bombay to Marseilles, France, from where they will take ship for the United States.

Aside from the "armor-plated" rhino, the Roosevelts bagged royal bengal tigers, Indian antelopes, leopards, hogs and axis deer and more than 200 birds and smaller animals. The trophies are in addition to the ovipoli (Marco Polo sheep)—primary object of the trip—which the Roosevelts secured in the Pamir mountains, up near the "roof of the world."

Mother With New Infant Confesses Robbery of Bank

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 8.—Joy struggled against sorrow in the home of Palmer Berg, 28, here, as his 22-year-old wife, Helen McDuff Berg, gave birth to a daughter the day before, confessed to a $5400 bank theft.

Mrs. Berg, who was informed of the charge less than six hours after the daughter, Shirley Jane, arrived, denied her guilt.

Later, after Berg had conferred with the prosecuting attorney and admitted his wife had taken the money, she, too, confessed.

Flames Destroy $200,000 Mansion

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Fire has destroyed the large estate at the tip of Oriental Point, which was at various times the residence of former Mayor A. S. Hewitt of New York, Henry M. Flagler, Standard Oil executive, and David W. Griffith, motion picture producer. A really syndicate now controls the estate, which is untenanted. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

SOVIET COURIER IS SLAIN BY BANDITS

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—Attacked by masked bandits on a train, near Riga, one Soviet diplomatic courier, named Nette, was killed, and a second, named Makhmatal, was severely wounded, according to word received here.

Though Makhmatal's body was pierced with four bullets and he was in great agony, he clung to the mail pouches and their secret contents until Riga was reached, when he turned them over to Soviet colleagues.

The incident has caused deep indignation here and the Soviet government has demanded of the Latvian government a prompt investigation.

W. R. C. Members Hold Silver Tea

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 8.—Nearly 20 women gathered at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth French recently for a silver tea. The tea parties are held under the auspices of the Woman's Relief corps and provide money for the various needs of the organization. Fancy work donated by one of the members of the organization was awarded to Mrs. Julia Benner and netted the W. R. C. $2.25. Proceeds from the tea swelled the fund to more than $4.

The afternoon was spent at social chat. Plans for an all-day meeting with a pot-luck dinner, at noon, were discussed. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. F. Swift, of Talbert, February 18. The organization will complete work on several committees at that time and a large attendance is expected.

Among the members of the W. R. C. who were present at the silver tea at the home of Mrs. French were Mesdames Dolores Morrison, Frances C. Clarke, Luella Rudolph, Emma Sylvester, Nell Ballard, Bertha Harlan, Alice Adams, Julia Benner, Susan McFarlane, Elizabeth Wright, Minnie Higgins, Meta Sims, Esther Norris, Mary Reed, Maybelle Plauscher, Henrietta Robinson, Frances Murphy, Anna Taylor and the hostess, Mrs. Elizabeth French.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Feb. 8.—The entertainment given Friday evening for the benefit of the Wintersburg Home Missionary society by the Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Porter, of the First Christian church, Santa Ana, was a success in every way. Slight of hand tricks were shown by the Rev. Mr. Porter. Readings were contributed by Mrs. Porter. The courtesy of the Rev. and Mrs. Porter in giving the benefit was highly appreciated by the Missionary women, who at their next meeting will use the funds thus raised to some special mission purpose.

At the regular monthly social gathering Friday, the Queen Esther circle enjoyed a delicious pot-luck supper at the home of one of their number, Miss Geneva McMillan. A social hour followed, with early adjournment, as the usual study period and business meeting were not held. The Queen Esther circle, Miss Mildred Payne, Miss Julie Blacklock, Miss Opal Vanduff, Miss Alma Kanawyer, Miss Helen Phillips and the hostess, Miss Geneva McMillan.

The Junior Queen Esther society, which had a meeting scheduled for Friday night, postponed the event until this week.

The basketball team of the Oceanview grammar school has two games set for this week, one today with Fountain Valley and one Friday with Seal Beach. The contest with Seal Beach was scheduled for last Wednesday but on account of the rain, was postponed.

Mrs. W. W. Blaylock and her twin sons, William and Wallace Blaylock, accompanied to her home at Redondo Friday evening Mrs. Blaylock's daughter, Mrs. Frances Lacey, who had been a visitor for two days in the Blaylock home. Mrs. Blaylock and the boys remained over the week-end at Redondo. During their absence, Mrs. Blaylock's mother, Mrs. Laura Horton, visited with another daughter, Mrs. George W. Nichols, while Miss Xelia Nichols was the guest of her cousin, Miss Julie Blacklock.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Scott Willmarth were entertained at dinner Friday at the home of Mrs. Lillie Shafer Moore.

At their meeting last week, the Comrades, the older class of Y. M. C. A. boys discussed baseball, which is at present of especial interest to them as their team is playing each Saturday evening at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. "The Go-Getters" is the name which the club has given its team.

UNION OIL TO LEASE BRYANT TRACT, REPORT

SEAL BEACH, Feb. 8.—Entry of the Union Oil company into the Seal Beach district, was indicated today when it became known that the Union is negotiating for more than 100 acres of the Bryant tract, located just north of and adjoining the Bryant property of the Shell company. Officials of the Union Oil company assert that the transaction has not been completed, but it is admitted that negotiations have made considerable headway.

According to reports, the terms of the deal call for a bonus of about $100,000 for the entire tract. No information on the drilling requirements is available, but it is understood that this question has not yet been agreed upon by the two parties to the transaction.

The Bryant property in the Seal Beach district includes approximately 1500 acres, of which the Shell company has had the southern portion under lease for several years. The portion for which the Union is negotiating offsets the Shell lease.

Definite indications of the trend of the Seal Beach structure are expected when the Shell company's Bryant No. 4 gets down to 3500 or 4000 feet. This well was spudded in during the past week, directly in line between the Shell company's Bryant No. 1, and the Matamoros company's Bixby No. 1, the only two producing wells in the field, and approximately midway between the two wells.

The fact that both the Bixby and Bryant wells show edge conditions, although unmistakably on the structure, leaves the question of just where the crest of the anticline may be still a matter of conjecture. The new Bryant well is expected to furnish the link that will enable the geologist to correlate the logs of all three wells, and arrive at something more than a guess as to where the field really is.

The Marland Oil company is putting its Bixby well on a pumping test of about 10 days which is expected to give a definite answer to the problem of how much it will produce. The well has been on production since it was first finished, and no real estimate of its possibilities has been possible. It is generally believed that the Marland will have to drill another well to get a final test of its property.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW BEACH HOTEL PLANNED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 8.—A community hotel may be erected here in the near future if business men get behind a proposition advocated by R. Barr, of Los Angeles, who is said to have prompted similar enterprises in a number of towns in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

Although definite plans for the hotel were not revealed today, Barr has been in town talking the matter over with business men for the past several days. The opportunity for a good tourist hotel is unexcelled, according to Barr. He declares that a first class hotel on the beach would prove an excellent attraction to vacationists looking for a luxurious and quiet place to spend the summer months. The even temperature here would make the hotel a drawing card during the winter, he argues.

Business men have not voiced any opinion on the hotel project but they have evinced interest in securing a hospital and a cafeteria for this city. The hospital matter has been one of prime importance for the past several years. Since the completion of the coast highway, it assumes a more serious aspect. The nearest hospitals from any of the Orange county beach towns are located in Santa Ana and Long Beach, a distance of from 13 to 20 miles.

S. L. Harrell, local undertaker, recently solved part of the problem when he purchased an ambulance and now has the machine ready for hurry calls. Previous to this time, it was necessary to call ambulances from Santa Ana, Anaheim or Long Beach, which entailed a loss of sometimes 25 or 30 minutes.

Some intimations that a hospital might be erected here have been evinced by the Milton hospital interests of Los Angeles. The Los Angeles hospital has control of enough land at the corner of Walnut avenue and Eleventh street to erect a hospital and the matter was brought up last year, but was dropped again and nothing has been heard of it recently.

The matter of establishing a cafeteria in this city has also been suggested by local business men. The merchants declare that many persons are partial to cafeterias and believe that the establishment of a large cafeteria on the ocean front would prove a profitable investment. It is possible that the matter may be taken up in a community way along with the hotel project.

Anaheim Clubs Present Program

ANAHEIM, Feb. 8.—Men's luncheon clubs of the city united with the Business and Professional Woman's club in the presentation of a special dance and stunt program in the Elks clubhouse. Approximately 150 couples attended.

Stunts arranged by the local Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and by the Elks club, were the principal features of a short vaudeville program which preceded the dancing hour. Members of the women's club presented a clever skit entitled "The Poor Wolkins Girls."

L. P. Bonnat acted as announcer and led the gathering in community singing. Music for dancing was furnished by Dysart's orchestra of Santa Ana.

Seek Director For Beach Band

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 8.—Efforts to secure a new director for the Huntington Beach Municipal band were being made today by Will H. Gallienne, manager of the band. Harry G. Webber, director for the past year, died last week.

Gallienne is endeavoring to find some person who will move to this city to carry on the work started by Webber. Webber had several classes for young people and was thinking of starting a young peoples' band. A director will be necessary in the near future if the local band hopes to again give Sunday concerts through the summer season.

S. A. Women Will Speak At Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Jack Olivari, of Santa Ana, county chairman of the arts and crafts section of the Federation of Women's clubs, will address members of the local Woman's club at the regular meeting of the organization tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will be held in the city auditorium, as the improvements to the clubhouse on Tenth street are not completed.

Mrs. Olivari will speak on "How to Make Pretty Things Out of Nothing." She will be assisted by Mrs. R. M. Hagar, Mrs. W. Zeigler, Mrs. Chester Hosmer, Mrs. John I. Hinkle and Mrs. Thomas Berry.

Mrs. Earl Summers went to Los Angeles Friday to visit Mr. Summers, who was so seriously injured several weeks ago in the Imperial valley, in a Los Angeles hospital. During Mr. Summers' stay in the hospital, Mrs. Summers is staying at the D. P. Crawford home.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Henderson, parents of C. E. Henderson, of this city, who have been residing in Philadelphia with a daughter, were unable to resist the calling of Southern California and have returned to locate permanently.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Henderson attended a college reunion Friday evening in Los Angeles, where some 40 persons, former graduates or students of Tarkio college, Mo., gathered at the First United Presbyterian church.

BEACH POLICE MATRON DOUBLES MONEY ON LOTS IN OIL RESTRICTED AREA

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 8.—The price of lots in the restricted area between Seventeenth and Twenty-third streets, this city, continued to climb today, with oil companies the main gamblers on the chance of voters of the town lifting the drilling restrictions.

Sentiment here seems to be growing in favor of lifting restrictions, especially in that section of town, and a number of persons are said to be in favor of lifting the ban in the entire city. The fact that several attempts have already been made and the fact that much money is now being spent in the district, leads many persons to believe that the subject will be brought before the citizens again and again until a test finally is made for oil in the restricted area.

Evidence of further increases in prices was shown Saturday, when Mrs. Kittle Sager, police matron, sold two lots at the southwest corner of Nineteenth and Olive street for $4000 cash. The Sager lots were sold along with two belonging to Edward Bushnell, of Los Angeles. Bushnell received $3800, it is understood. Each of the lots is 25 by 117 1/2 feet in size. Mrs. Sager stated that the price she received was double what she paid for the property.

BANKS TO CLOSE SATURDAY NIGHTS

ORANGE, Feb. 8.—Orange banks have discontinued Saturday evening banking hours, abandoning a service which has been in effect for the past two years.

The action in discontinuing night service by the three local banking institutions was taken after local merchants had signed petitions advocating the Saturday night closing.

According to W. F. Kogler, cashier of the First National bank, the Saturday night closing is a step toward uniform hours in Orange county banks, as a preliminary to opening of an Orange county clearance house.

The movement for a clearance firm, furnishing daily clearances for all county banks, is being sponsored by the Orange County Bankers' association. Banks in Anaheim, Garden Grove, Santa Ana and Tustin have already discontinued Saturday evening hours in connection with the movement, while banks at Brea and Fullerton remain to follow suit, it was declared.

Standard Well Throws Tools

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 8.—Residents of Huntington Beach were startled yesterday when the Standard Oil company's D5 threw tools and mud out of the hole with a roar which was heard for nearly a mile.

According to reports from the company this morning, little damage was done and about four hours' work repaired the well so that drilling was started again this morning.

A gas pocket was blamed for the blow up. Tools were tossed out of the hole as though they had been matches, and mud was reported to have been sprinkled liberally around for more than a block. The depth of the hole when the gas pocket was encountered could not be learned. The well is situated on the property owned by the Huntington Beach company in the western section of the field.

ORANGE

ORANGE, Feb. 8.—Miss Florence Gillogly and Miss Mary Katherine Lowry spent Saturday in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bishop motored to Pasadena Saturday where they were guests of Mrs. J. E. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meler and Miss Arletta West motored to Los Angeles Saturday to be guests of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilmore motored to Los Angeles Saturday. The Glen Stoddard family, formerly of 165 North Lemon street, is now located at 54 Navy street, Venice.

Russell Johnson, of Santa Ana, was a business visitor in Orange last week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Tardell are now residing at 215 South Cypress street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Day are now residing at 253 North Harwood street.

Miss Lillian Hilton, of the Lasky studio, and Mrs. E. F. Fenton, of Kansas City, were recent guests of Mrs. J. E. Parker, North Batavia street.

ANAHEIM, Feb. 8.—Rumors current here, that the Owl Drug company was contemplating opening a branch store here in the corner building soon to be vacated by the S. Q. R. store, were today discarded by Frank C. Eisenhauer, of the Orange County Drug company, Anaheim agent for the Owl Drug company.

Architects have been busy recently in the S. Q. R. building laying plans for remodeling it for use as a drug store but owners have refused to give the name of the prospective tenant. The building is one of the oldest business structures in the city and occupies the southwest corner of Los Angeles and Center streets.

Eisenhauer, in an interview today stated that it is against the policy of the Owl company to establish branches in cities of less than 25,000 population.

Lions Entertain High School Boys

BREA, Feb. 8.—The spirit of Lionism was truly exemplified at the regular weekly luncheon of the Lion's club when the members entertained the boys of the Glee club of the Brea-Olinda high school. Sixteen of the boys, accompanied by their leader, Miss Louise Chapman, instructor of music in the high school, were present.

After the luncheon, the boys, accompanied by Miss Florence Moser, of the piano, sang some of their rousing songs, ending their part of the program with some ear-splitting school and class yells, not forgetting to give three cheers and a tiger for the Lions. Miss Chapman gave a vocal selection.

Prof. I. W. Barnett, of the local high school, to whom the gavel was given at the end of the business meeting, spoke very interestingly of Scout and Camp Fire work and citizenship with the boys and girls of the schools, stating that he had never known an eagle Scout who was not dependable in every way. He also stated authoritatively that there is not a Boy Scout prisoner in San Quentin today. Prof. Barnett took occasion to praise the members of the Lion's club for their cooperation with the Brea schools and their manifest desire to make of them a thorough success.

Guests of the club were Mrs. I. W. Barnett, Miss Louise Chapman, Miss Florence Moser, Mrs. Stella Keene, Rev. J. J. Bell, "Dad" Birney, of Huntington Beach, and Walter Chesley, of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. White and family spent Saturday evening with friends in Placentia. On Sunday, they motored to Whittier, where they spent the evening visiting friends.

Mrs. R. E. Mims entertained her brother, Will Bouldin, of Placentia, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bouldin Nimo visited with Mrs. Nimo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lutter, of Los Angeles, Sunday.

LIBRARY MEET AT FULLERTON ATTRACTS 300

FULLERTON, Feb. 8.—Attended by more than 300 persons associated with library work, the all day meeting of the sixth district of the California Library association in the local Masonic temple on Saturday, was featured by inspiring addresses and interesting discussions. The visitors were welcomed by Mayor H. H. Crooke. Members of the Orange County Library club acted as hostesses.

Miss Margaret Livingston, of Santa Ana, president of the sixth district, presided, introducing as speakers during the morning session, Miss Althea Wargen, librarian of the San Diego public library, and Richard Warren Borst, head of the English department of Fullerton union high school and the Junior college. Miss Warren discussed "Present Day Styles in Children's Books" in a very clever way. Mr. Borst's topic was "The Dynamic Librarian," and concerned the different types of librarians with whom he had come in contact.

Luncheon was served at noon, with Mrs. Mabel K. Paulkner, president of the Orange county library club, presiding. In the afternoon session, Milton J. Furgeson, California state librarian, and Lady Adams, wife of Sir John Adams, distinguished educator, were speakers.

PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, Feb. 8.—J. C. Donald, of Santa Paula, has been visiting with Mrs. Donald and their children at the Mary F. Key home.

On Wednesday, the members of the B. G. N. Card club planned a happy surprise for one of the members, Mrs. Jennings D. Sturdevant, whose first wedding anniversary occurred on that date.

Mrs. Sturdevant was invited to spend the afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Pletroff and on arriving, found all of the members of the club there to welcome her. The afternoon was spent playing cards. Delicious refreshments were served following the games.

Mrs. Sturdevant was presented with a picture, "The Garden of Melody." The winners of the prizes were Mesdames William Birkenstock and George Forster.

Mrs. Barbara Carrow, of Fullerton, visited her sister, Mrs. James Cohoe, Wednesday.

M. D. Clay is spending a few days in Escondido.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McCulloch, who are on their way to Florida, that they were in the Panama canal zone.

Company at the W. J. Bennie home recently included J. Landers, of Arizona, and Mr. McCarthy, of Mexico. The Bennies and their guests drove to Wilmington to see Mr. and Mrs. Bernalt, who recently arrived from Arizona.

Mrs. M. L. Hall celebrated a birthday anniversary recently, with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lenhart and children, of Long Beach, as guests.

Mrs. Sam Newnes and daughter, Madeline, and son, Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wallace were in San Diego two days recently.

Joe Wade had his right hand badly crushed while working for the Union Oil company a few days ago.

Don Milligan is still very ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Rouse, where he has been confined for the past three weeks.

Ever Cox is improving from a severe case of influenza.

Miss Gertrude Goldburg, of Los Angeles, is a visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. Elmer Hochstein.

Mrs. Elmer Hochstein entertained a few guests one day recently. Card games were the diversion of the evening, with refreshments after the games. Those at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Newnes, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wallace, Mrs. Anna New, Miss Gertrude Goldburg and Mr. and Mrs. Hochstein.

Paul Rouse had his limb severely injured when he fell from his bicycle.

Miss Lalla Cochran is in Santa Paula spending several days with her parents.

O. C. Christensen, Tom Kenney, Otis Cooper, L. R. Bird and W. D. Stoen, drove to Riverside on Tuesday night to assist in the I. O. O. F. initiatory work at the lodge there.

Leland Green will have charge of the Fishermen's club until Don Milligan recovers from his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. McClure, of the Placentia Courier, were given a surprise by friends from Pomona on Tuesday evening. The evening was spent playing five hundred. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harker, Mr. and Mrs. W. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Harmer.

"The Placentia Round Table club's "Illustrated Review," presented on Wednesday under the leadership of Mrs. Herbert Sullivan at the regular club meeting at the clubhouse, was a great success.

Taking a favorite magazine as the basis, all of the different departments, including fashions, fiction and advertisements, were shown. The advertisements proving especially interesting. Interspersed were

AMBUSH DIPLOMACY

The propaganda news article sent out from Anaheim by nobody knows who, in which article it is declared that a meeting of "prominent business men"—the name of these so-called prominent business men are not given—had declared in favor of forming a new county to be called Valencia county and to consist of the northern part of Orange county and the Whittier district, contained numerous misrepresentations of the attitude of residents of the northern portion of the county, as well as many misstatements of fact.

Reading the propaganda, one might conclude that the northern end of the county had been waging an unsuccessful fight to get a larger representation on the board of supervisors. As a matter of fact, the opposite is true. The third supervisorial district has successfully combatted every effort that has been made to secure an equitable redistricting of the county. Redistricting in accordance with the law, which sets population as the basis, would necessitate taking part of the third district and putting it in with either the second district or the fourth district. There is enough population in the third district to give it 1.5 supervisors. Santa Ana is entitled to 1.5 supervisors, too, and Santa Ana has just as much occasion to enter a protest against the present supervisorial district lines as has the northern district. Santa Ana, however, has evidently been content to allow the area of the county outside Santa Ana to hold four-fifths of the representation on the board, just as the third district has been content with that same arrangement.

The last effort that was made to redistrict the county was defeated by the third district, alone and unaided. The reason for the opposition was that the third district did not want any of its oil district assessments to go elsewhere. In the face of that, it seems that the "prominent business men" whose identity is kept secret have small cause for complaint because the northern part of the county has but one supervisor.

As to the distribution of highway money and supervisorial patronage, no one around the courthouse had noticed that the northern portion of the county was suffering from lack of consideration. It remains for the "prominent business men" whose identity is not confessed to make the discovery and announce it through an article in which the names of those present and presiding were strangely missing.

Things have been going along harmoniously for a long time, so far as the drawing of a line between the various parts of the county is concerned. There has been less of a disposition to create factional feeling the past three or four years than ever before in the history of the county. We are fully satisfied that if there is anything that any part of the county needs, and can show that need, the rest of the county will give it freely and wholeheartedly. Our progress has been substantial, and this progress has not been confined to any section of the county. We have gone a long way together, as one big family, and we cannot believe that there is any deflection of any consequence to the general feeling of harmony and satisfaction that prevails throughout the county.

If there was a secret meeting attended by "prominent business men," it cannot be that there was any real faith in the proposal that steps be taken for the formation of a new county. A fight for a movement of that sort is made aboveboard, or else it dies in ambush.

Foreign nations are borrowing our money to buy our oil to save their own, expecting to sell us theirs at monopolistic prices when ours is gone.

DR. COOK SPEAKS AGAIN

Dr. Frederick Cook and the famous North Pole controversy have long been considered settled. Now the issue boils up again.

Amundsen, whose integrity nobody has ever impugned, who discovered the South Pole and nearly reached the North Pole by airplane, says he has read the accounts of both men and found them much alike, and about equally convincing. He seems rather to suggest that Cook reached the Pole than that Peary did not.

Cook naturally takes advantage of that statement, issuing one of his own, in which he says that recent explorations in the Arctic, by MacMillan and Amundsen, have disproved many of Peary's observations.

"I note these facts in review," he says, "with no intention to underrate Peary's worthy efforts, but to indicate that a pioneer working under great difficulties is subject to some inaccuracies in his observations."

"It must be remembered that I was the first to report the physical conditions at the Pole, and that all my work since has tended to confirm my reports. Rear Admiral Schley was the first to point out this phase of the rival claims."

According to Schley's views, says Cook, either Cook or Peary, or both, reached the same place and described the same conditions.

This controversy will never be settled to everybody's satisfaction. Most people, presumably, will continue to believe that Peary reached the Pole and Cook didn't. A large number of Americans, however, especially those who have talked with Cook or heard him speak, are convinced that if Cook never really attained the goal, he thought he did. Cook's more recent record seems to condemn him.

CONGRESSIONAL READERS

When some inquiring person endeavored to find out recently what Congressmen like to read, an Alabama legislator came back with this plaint:

"When can congressmen read? I haven't read a book since I've been in Congress, ten years. My favorite authors are my constituents; my favorite specimens of literature are their letters; my favorite magazine is the Congressional Record; my favorite newspaper writers are local correspondents."

Others maintained that they had little time for literature because they had to read works on finance and agriculture and other specialized topics which present harassing problems to the law-makers.

Nevertheless, Congressmen do read occasionally or have read enough in the past to have formed preferences. They run to history and biography, choosing for relaxation children's books or western adventure tales. They don't like Shaw, Sinclair Lewis, Mencken or Kipling, but they do like Dickens and Shakespeare and a lot of other standard authors.

So now one more questionnaire has solved another more or less vital problem and proved Congressmen to be pretty much like their constituents in reading tastes—that is, different ones like different sorts of books. Most books and most authors have their respective readers and admirers in Congress as well as outside.

Anyhow, this seems to indicate that congressmen are people.

Mexico's Intentions

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Assurances having come from the Foreign Secretary of Mexico that the southern republic has no intention of making its alien land law retroactive, or of adopting and enforcing confiscatory policies toward the property of foreigners, the outlook brightens; and unless practice should fail to coincide with promise, it may be believed that the incident virtually is closed.

The right of the Mexican Congress to enact laws governing ownership of property by aliens is not questioned. The United States claims, and has exercised, the same privilege. If Mexico desires to make it impossible for Americans hereafter to purchase and hold real estate in Mexico, this could be done without grounds for complaint from Washington. It was only when advised that Mexico intended to take away property rights already purchased and held by Americans and other foreigners that the state department questioned the legality of the proceeding, under certain rights which had been guaranteed to citizens of the Mexican constitution.

The first misconception of Mexico's attitude seemingly has been explained away by the foreign secretary, but there is no sign of any purpose to recede from that policy which will make it less easy for citizens of the United States to acquire lands in Mexico.

It is evident that what promised to be an important colonization and development movement in Mexico under the leadership of American enterprise and capital has been checked, and probably will not be resumed, at least until there is a clearer understanding of the Mexican position. This policy will deny to Mexican landowners the opportunity to sell their surplus acreage to wealthy Americans at advancing prices, and this in turn will interrupt an era of progress that for a time seemed destined to have large proportions. Mexico, however, is a sovereign nation, and whether its action rests upon the traditional "manana" habit of thought, or is inspired by fear of American aggression, it is an issue over which Americans will not quarrel. In any case, the closed-door idea is preferable to revolution; and there are other places for the profitable employment of American dollars.

Coloring the News

Riverside Press

The readers of the news columns of a paper are entitled to a fair and unbiased report of the facts. If they want arguments, they should find them in the editorial columns. All papers that are conducted according to high ethical standards observe the rule of honest and accurate reports of the news; there are, however, exceptions even among great papers, and the Los Angeles Times is a striking example of the exception.

The Times is represented at Washington this winter by Kyle Palmer, formerly the correspondent of that paper at the state legislature at Sacramento. Mr. Palmer is a very able and versatile newspaper man; and in general he sends a report from Washington that is interesting and fair. When it comes to the Boulder dam legislation, however, he wires not what happens, but what Harry Chandler with his Mexican land interests would like to have happen. And he is evidently under very definite instructions to discredit and misrepresent Congressman Swing and Senator Johnson on every possible occasion.

STAMPING OUT SMALLPOX

The first great plague to be subdued was smallpox. At one time, smallpox was the most common, the most dreaded disease in the world.

One day, a young girl came to a young medical student for advice. During the course of their conversation, the young lady asserted that she was not afraid of smallpox because she had had cowpox. Cowpox, as you probably know, is not a very bad disease. It occurred to the young medical student, whose name was Jenner, that if what this girl said should prove to be true, it would be much safer to inoculate people with cowpox than with smallpox as was commonly practiced.

He began to seek out people who had had cowpox and to persuade them to allow him to inoculate them with smallpox. After he had inoculated them with smallpox, he found that in no case did the disease develop. He decided to persuade someone who had never had either cowpox or smallpox to submit himself for inoculation first with cowpox and later with smallpox.

On May 14, 1796, a young lad named James Phipps volunteered for the test and two inoculations of smallpox virus failed to bring on the dreaded disease.

Jenner's experiment was repeated many times in England and people soon began to vaccinate from arm to arm.

Dr. Benjamin Waterhouse, the first professor of medicine in the Harvard medical school, an officer of the Marine hospital, now the Public Health Service, became convinced of the value of Dr. Jenner's demonstration. He obtained some vaccine virus from England and on July 8, 1800 vaccinated his little five-year-old son. This is the first recorded case of vaccination in the United States. Later, Dr. Waterhouse vaccinated his entire family and when they had all recovered from their vaccinations, he inoculated them with smallpox but none of them took the disease.

If vaccination does not take, does that indicate that the person will not have smallpox?

By no means. There must be a successful vaccination and this should be repeated in from 7 to 10 years.

What is the cause of the very sore arms which sometimes result from vaccination?

A former very common cause was the so-called "criss-cross" method of scarification. Doctors, generally, have abandoned this method. It should never be used. Neglect of the wound and the use of the vaccination shield or a bunion plaster may also result in infection. There is no excuse for either. Have the vaccination performed by a competent physician and keep the arm dry, cool, and clean. Show it to the doctor two days after vaccination if you have had a "take" before. In any case, go back to the doctor five to seven days after vaccination.

If properly done and the vaccination is properly taken care of, vaccination is, I should say, much less dangerous than crossing a boulevard in a modern city. If one is careless in crossing the street, he may get hurt; if a vaccination wound is mistreated, kept warm and moist under a shield or allowed to get dirty—it may cause trouble.

Uncle Abner Stumbles Onto One of Life's Little Mysteries

In Order to Sell, the Merchant Must Tell

San Francisco Chronicle.

No better proof of the commercial utility of advertising need be sought than the conclusion reached by the United States Chamber of Commerce that more than a billion dollars is spent yearly in the newspapers and periodicals of the country to foster and extend manufacture and merchandising.

The Power of advertising to increase sales has been put to the most searching examination and the tests have but served to emphasize its value. To sell his goods the merchant or manufacturer must tell about his goods. There is no market for the obscure product.

The public's interest in advertising is genuine. It is commonly said that the ultimate consumer pays the price of this far-reaching exploitation of commodities, but such a statement misses the fact that advertising, instead of increasing, decreases the price paid by the consumer. Advertising makes production on a larger scale possible and that means cheaper production. It also brings about cheaper distribution. People go to stores and ask for exactly what they want. They are served quickly and make room for other customers. The consumer gets more for his money because the dealer is able to make a quick turnover.

The newspaper as an advertising medium is a potent factor in the business life of the community. It has a dual role in helping the merchant and protecting the buyer. And, because it aims to do both these things well, it has won the confidence of both the advertiser and the public.

"And the oils?"

"Yes, but no vinegar. I want you to paint the salad. I don't want you to eat it."—Art Record.

This afternoon pop brawt home a bunch of flowers all rapped up, holding them in back of him and saying, Wares your mother, Benny?

Upstairs, I sed and pop sed, Well keep her up there till I have time to arrange these flowers and serprize her. Tell her the story of your life, he sed.

And I went up and ma was jest coming out of her room, me saying, Wait a minnit, ma, don't go down yet, I want to tell you something, wait a minnit, G, ma.

Wats all the excitement, was that your father jest came in? ma sed.

Wen? I sed.

O, one day last week for good-niss sakes, ma sed. And she started to go down agen and I sed, Hay, wait a minnit, ma, I havent told you yet.

Told me wat, wat is all this grate mystery? ma sed.

I want to tell you wat happened to Puds Simkins, I sed.

Well, wat was it, get it out of your sistern, ma sed, and I sed, Well Puds was wawking along not thinking of anything and 3 ladies stopped him and asked him if he didnt remember who they was, and Puds had never even saw them before so of course he didnt have any ideer, so they must of thawt he was somebody elts.

I don't call that a very choice piece of news I must say, now get out of my way, I want to go down stairs, ma sed, and I sed, Well wat a minnit, ma I want to tell you what happened to Shorty Judge.

Ill tell you wats going to happen to you in a minnit, ma sed. And she pushed me out of the way and wen down and pop had the flowers all fixed in the blue vase, and ma sed they were perfectly beutifull and fixed them all over agen.

The Very Idea!
By Hal Cochran

MY LIL TOT

See that youngster down the street? She's a tot of mine. Sweetest child you'll ever meet. Simply super-fine. Only five, but as she grows, say, you'd be surprised, just how much this youngster knows. I've just realized.

Cute? Why, gee, she's cuter still. Clever little ways. Things she does are fit to kill every time she plays. Rules around my neighborhood. Sister's what she's called. Spirit does the neighbors good. That's what she's installed.

Races in and races out, happy all day long. When this youngster's not about everything seems wrong. Only to the corner she ever likes to roam. That's the place she waits for me when I'm comin' home.

Every night, when sleep time comes, sister's tucked in bed. Crazy tunes her daddy hums, e'er the good night's said. Simply had to let this out. Now I'm feelin' fine. Here's to one I'm wild about—she's a tot of mine.

We all make mistakes—finstance the fellow who gave Pittsburgh during international broadcasting week, and it was so cloudy he thought he had London.

Some vocalists remind one of Fritz Kreisler, 'cause he doesn't sing either.

Sister got a shingle, then Mom followed in a hurry. Father's hair has vanished, so He doesn't have to worry.

NOW, HONESTLY—

All of us don't know so much, after all.

For instance—what hooks are for.

We walk into the house, drop our overcoats most any place; toss our hats on a chair; fling our mufflers on the dining room table, and at retreating time, do likewise with all other wearing apparel.

Course it gives mothers a lot of things to pick up, but—

Would help if we'd remember that hooks are made to hang things on.

Hang that on your memory.

Supposin' the weather was always the same. We wouldn't know how to start a conversation.

You can wear any hat for five years if you have it reblocked a couple of times, cleaned a triple of times, and change it in some restaurant for a new one.

STRANGER—Hasn't that photographer large hands?

STRANGER STILL—Yeah, he's been playing around in developer.
